

STRING BENDING

An important technique for playing blues guitar is bending strings. This technique produces the characteristic moaning or "singing-like" sound of blues guitar and makes it possible to change pitch without changing the fret position of the finger.

To bend a string follow these steps:

- Depress the string with the left-hand finger.
- Maintain pressure as you push the string upward or pull it downward.

Bends are indicated in the music by a curved or pointed slur (∩) in standard notation and an arrow in tablature. Bending strings works best on steel-string guitars and is done most easily on light gauge strings with an unwound third string.

Below are some characteristic bends.

TRACK 10

THE DOUBLE STOP

A double stop is two notes played at once. Guitarists such as Chuck Berry, Jimi Hendrix, Freddie King, and many others have used double stops to enhance their solos and fills.

Below are some characteristic double stops.

TRACK 11

THE SLIDE

A slide is a common left-hand technique that is used by blues guitarists to produce a smooth, flowing sound.

To perform a slide follow these steps:

- Depress the string with the left-hand finger.
- Pick the string with the right hand.
- Maintain pressure as you move your left-hand finger up or down the fretboard to the second position shown.

Below are some characteristic slides:
