with a discussion of how the way we conduct and analyze interviews facilitates a deeper more intimate conversation with research participants by encouraging them to incorporate the same overarching harm reduction framework to provide feedback about changing specific health behaviors. Scholars of health communication and research will understand the critical role of a humanistic attitude and pragmatic communication with participants as well as the importance of further extrapolating these strategies to their broader target audience.

Evaluation as a mechanism to foster an equitable society in the Global South Steven Masvaure, Takunda Chirau, Tebogo Fish, Samukelisiwe Mkhize, Candice Morkel, 2025-02-24. This scholarly book is Volume 2 of a duology that seeks to stimulate conversations among development evaluators, commissioners of evaluations, and development programme decision makers about the role of evaluation in addressing inequality and fostering an equitable society in Africa. The book chapters explore the following questions: 1. Take stock of what we know about inequality: what inequality is in the African context and how does it affect the lives of the citizens of African countries? 2. What does equitable evaluation mean? How can the concept of equitable evaluation be adopted in evaluation practice? 3. What lessons can be learnt from evaluations of interventions that address inequality at various levels: sectoral, programmatic, and project levels? 4. What epistemological transformation in evaluation practice is needed to achieve an equitable society? and 5. How have issues of inequality manifested within evaluation practice through organisations, institutions, and international development? This book's target audience is academics engaged in the field of developmental programmes in sub-Saharan Africa.

Feminist Institutionalism and Gendered Bureaucracies Radha Wagle, Soma Pillay, Wendy Wright, 2020-03-25. This book examines the processes for the inclusion of women and the role of women employees in Nepal's forestry bureaucracy. The book adopts a gender lens drawn from feminist institutionalism and is framed around the following four objectives: evaluating the effectiveness of current legislative and policy frameworks for the inclusion of women in the Nepalese forest bureaucracy; examining the dynamics of organizational culture, formal and informal institutions, and structure and agency in and around forest bureaucracy in Nepal; assessing power relations in forestry institutions, focusing on influential participation of women forestry professionals in the bureaucratic structure; and gaining insights about the alternative space of feminist institutionalism in connection with women inclusive forest bureaucracy. Findings in the book inform and extend feminist institutionalism perspectives by applying it to a context which remains under explored, providing insights on the efficacy of public sector cultural change, especially as it relates to those areas within bureaucracies less in a position to adopt the changes mandated by society and principles of good governance.

 Theory and Evaluation Practice* Melissa Freeman, 2010-10-12 As a practice meant to improve society evaluation is implicated in discussions about which societal and cultural values and principles of justice will prevail and which ones will get subverted or ignored altogether For the most part as currently configured the relationship of evaluators to policy makers has jeopardized evaluation s ability to provide the critical lens needed for feedback on the effects of a society s practices policies and structures Many theorists believe that it is only by examining and critically assessing how knowledge is produced and reproduced in society that we can better reflect on and imagine new more socially just social configurations and relations One such approach critical theory is a pedagogical practice that employs a systemic and historical critique of social and cultural formations and practices in a way that fosters citizens abilities to evaluate and alter them The intent of this issue of
