

N. Gregory Mankiw – Principles of Economics

Chapter 16. OLIGOPOLY

Solutions to Problems and Applications

1.
 - a. OPEC members were trying to reach an agreement to cut production so they could raise the price.
 - b. They were unable to agree on cutting production because each country has an incentive to cheat on any agreement. The result is a decline in the price of oil because of increased production.
 - c. OPEC would like Norway and Britain to join their cartel so they could act like a monopoly.
2.
 - a. If there were many suppliers of diamonds, price would equal marginal cost ($1,000), so the quantity would be 12,000.
 - b. With only one supplier of diamonds, quantity would be set where marginal cost equals marginal revenue. The following table derives marginal revenue:

Price (Thousands of dollars)	Quantity (Thousands)	Total Revenue (Millions of dollars)	Marginal Revenue (Millions of dollars)
10	1	10	10
9	2	18	8
8	3	24	6
7	4	28	4
6	5	30	2
5	6	30	0
4	7	28	-2
3	8	24	-4
2	9	18	-6
1	10	10	-8
0	11	0	-10
0	12	0	-12

With marginal cost of $1,000 per diamond, or $3 million per thousand diamonds, the monopoly will maximize profits at a price of $7,000 and a quantity of 5,000. Additional production beyond this point would lead to a situation where marginal revenue is lower than marginal cost.

- c. If Russia and South Africa formed a cartel, they would set price and quantity like a monopolist, so the price would be $7,000 and the quantity would be 5,000. If they split the market evenly, they would share total revenue of $42 million and costs of $6 million, for a total profit of $36 million. So each would produce 3,000 diamonds and get a profit of $18 million. If Russia produced 3,000 diamonds and South Africa produced 4,000, the price would decline to $6,000. South Africa's revenue would rise to $24 million, costs would be $4 million, so profits would be $20 million, which is an increase of $2 million.
 - d. Cartel agreements are often not successful because one party has a strong incentive to cheat to make more profit. In this case, each could increase profit by $2 million by producing an extra thousand diamonds. However, if both countries did this, profits
