Critical Thinking and Language Tim John Moore, 2011-10-13 This book clarifies the idea of critical thinking by investigating the critical practices of academics across a range of disciplines Drawing on key theorists Wittgenstein Geertz Williams Halliday and using a textographic approach the book explores how the concept of critical thinking is understood by academics and also how it is constructed discursively in the texts and practices they employ in their teaching Critical thinking is one of the most widely discussed concepts in debates on university learning For many the idea of teaching students to be critical thinkers characterizes more than anything else the overriding purpose of higher education But whilst there is general agreement about its importance as an educational ideal there is surprisingly little agreement about what the concept means exactly Also at issue is how and what students need to be taught in order to be properly critical in their field This searching monograph seeks answers to these important questions

Teaching for Christian Wisdom Samy Estafanos, 2018-08-20 In many ways Christian education in the Presbyterian Church in Egypt was deeply influenced by public education in Egypt One of the negative consequences of such influence is the significant lack of developing and using critical thinking as a basic element of the process While multiple factors educational and theological contribute to forming it this problem manifests itself in many ways The present research deals with the lack of critical thinking as a central problematic reality of the Christian education process in the Presbyterian Church in Egypt In order to illuminate and address this problematic situation Richard Osmer s understanding of Christian education as practical theology is used to bring into dialogue American philosopher psychologist and educator John Dewey and reformer and theologian John Calvin In light of this dialogue not only the lack of critical thinking but also multiple other dimensions of the problematic situation of Christian education in the Presbyterian Church in Egypt are illuminated Lack of democracy lack of the use of experience lack of creative pedagogies lack of practical reason and lack of theology from the process are some of these dimensions Adapting Osmer s comprehensive approach to Christian education as practical theology Samy Estafanos proposes a holistic approach towards Christian education that aims at transforming education into a reconciling process
