Public Service Management and Asylum Kirsty Strokosch, 2019-06-03 Co production occurs when citizens actively participate in the design and delivery of public services The concept and its practice are of increasing interest among policymakers public service managers and academics alike with co production often being described as a revolutionary solution to public service reform Public Service Management and Asylum Co production Inclusion and Citizenship offers a comprehensive exploration of co production from the public administration and service management perspectives In doing so it discusses the importance of both streams of literature in providing a holistic understanding of the concept and based on this integration it offers a model which differentiates co production on five levels The first three refer to the role of the public service user in the design and delivery of services co construction participative co production and co design and the other two focus on inter organisational relationships co management and co governance This model is applied to the case of asylum seekers in receipt of social welfare benefits in Scotland to explore the implications for social inclusion and citizenship It argues that as public service users asylum seekers will always play an active role in the process of service production and while co production does not provide asylum seekers with legal citizenship status it offers an opportunity for asylum seekers to act like citizens and supports their inclusion into society It will be of interest to researchers academics policymakers public services managers and students in the fields of public management public administration organizational studies Field Service
