

Section 1 Review page 118

- 1. Describe Democritus's atomic theory.
Everything in the universe is made up of atoms.
- 2. Summarize the main ideas of Dalton's theory.
 - a. Elements are made up of tiny unique particles called atoms.
 - b. Atoms cannot be divided.
 - c. Atoms of the same element are identical.
 - d. Atoms of different elements can join to form molecules.
- 3. Explain why Dalton's theory was more successful than Democritus's theory.
Dalton had experimental evidence to support his theory, while Democritus did not.
- 4. Compare Thomson's atomic model with Rutherford's atomic model.
Thomson's model- electrons were embedded in a sphere of positive charge
Rutherford's model- positive charge is concentrated in the nucleus and electrons surrounded the nucleus.
- 5. Analyzing elements
 - a. How did the cathode-ray tube experiment lead to the conclusion that atoms contain electrons? The air was removed from the tube and the beam of negative particles was observed. This suggests that atoms are made up of smaller units with negative charges.
 - b. How did the gold-foil experiment lead to the conclusion that the atom has a nucleus? the positive particles were deflected at large angles and therefore this suggests that a positive charge is concentrated in the center of the atom. (nucleus)
- 6. Making Inferences: Does the term indivisible still describe the atom? Explain.
No, the atom is not indivisible. It is made up of smaller parts such as the electron.

Section 2 review page 127

- 1. List the charge, mass, and location of each of the three subatomic particles found in atoms. The proton is positive, the neutron is neutral and electrons are negative. Protons and neutrons are found in the nucleus of an atom. The mass of a proton 1850 times greater than that of an electron.
- 2. Explain how you can use an atom's mass number and atomic number to determine the number of protons, electrons, and neutrons to determine the number of protons, electrons, and neutrons in the atom. The atomic number equals the number of protons. The number of electrons equals the number of protons. To find the number of neutrons subtract the atomic number from the mass number.
- 3. Identify the subatomic particle used to define an element, and explain why this particle is used. The proton defines the element's number because the each element always has the same number of protons, while the number of neutrons and electrons can vary.
- 4. Explain why the masses of atoms of the same element may differ. Because they can have different number of neutrons. For example Hydrogen (H) H, H₁Deuterium, H₂ Tritium. These are called isotopes.

Leyden,1988 The Chemical News and Journal of Physical Science ,1903 Curricular Program Implementation in the Context of Randomized Field Trials Gloria Isabel Miller,2011 Abstract curricular program implementation in the context of randomized field trials Gloria Isabel Miller This study examined three cases of commercially available curricular program implementations to determine if a unified approach to measuring the level of implementation was possible proof of concept

Further the study investigated whether the level of curriculum and implementation plan specificity made a difference to the strength of implementation achieved in classrooms and described the implementation evolution in different contexts The study sample consists of a total of 163 teachers in eight school districts across the United States In each case teachers were randomly assigned to using the curricular innovation or their currently used materials and processes The three cases HS Math NewScience and MathIntervention were purposely chosen to represent three different points of curricular and implementation specificity and two different subject areas math and science Each case features a commercially available program that also had opportunities for teachers to use electronic technology to enhance their learning or to engage their students The cases represent differing student grade levels The cases are different enough to provide a range that exercises the measurement techniques introduced in this study so results can begin to generalize across curricular programs and grades However the cases are similar enough in research design instrumentation and data collection methods to make them comparable A key contribution of this investigation is the creation of a framework to measure the level of implementation the extent to which the teacher and students display the actions behaviors and interactions expected by using the innovation The unified conceptual framework arrived at by using an Activity Theory perspective together with the analytical methods employed provide a way to view the rich complex interaction of implementation as a system with the larger system of the school organization Data from the analysis revealed that variations in the level of implementation were no different regardless of the level of specificity A strong finding of this work is that implementation evolves slowly even when the curricular program is scripted and coaching support is provided to teachers The paper concludes with implications for policy and future research
