Abstract

Background: Many small and malnourished infants under 6 months of age have problems with breastfeeding and restoring effective exclusive breastfeeding is a common treatment goal. Assessment is a critical first step of case management, but most malnutrition guidelines do not specify how best to do this. We aimed to identify breastfeeding assessment tools for use in assessing at-risk and malnourished infants in resource-poor settings.

Methods: We systematically searched: Medline and Embase; Web of Knowledge; Cochrane Reviews; Evidis and Google Scholar databases. Also the World Health Organization (WHO), United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF), Case Report guidelines, Emergency Nutrition Network, and Field Exchange websites. Assessment tool content was analysed using a framework describing breastfeeding 'domains' (baby's behaviour; mother's behaviour; position; latching; effective feeding; breast health; baby's health; mother's view of feed; number, timing and length of feeds).

Results: We identified 29 breastfeeding assessment tools and 45 validation studies. Eight tools had not been validated. Evidence underpinning most tools was low quality and mainly from high-income countries and hospital settings. The most comprehensive tools were the Breastfeeding, Evaluation and Education Tool, UNICEF Baby-Friendly Hospital Initiative tools and CARE training package. The tool with the strongest evidence was the WHO/UNICEF B-R-E-A-S-T-Feed Observation Form.

Conclusions: Despite many possible tools, there is currently no one gold standard. For assessing malnourished infants in resource-poor settings, UNICEF Baby-Friendly Hospital Initiative tools, Module 1FE

Chapter 7 Review Of Breastfeeding Assessment Tools:

Counseling Nursing Families: A Lactation Consultant's Guide Judith Lauwers, Lactation Education Accreditation and Approval Review Committee (LEAARC), 2025-10-29 Counseling Nursing Families remains unique among lactation texts in its focus on counseling and communication skills. It provides an appreciation of the significance of counseling techniques and how the lactation consultant's style and approach can enhance interactions with families and thus effectiveness. Topics are presented within a counseling framework with a focus on diversity and inclusivity and practical suggestions and evidence based information interwoven throughout the text. Breastfeeding Management for the Clinician Marsha Walker, 2013-05-20 Now in its third edition Breastfeeding Management for the Clinician Using the Evidence is a trusted compendium on breastfeeding for the practicing clinician. It provides a research based approach to breastfeeding care by including literature reviews while covering incidence, etiology, risk factors, prevention, prognosis and implications, interventions, expected outcomes, care plans and clinical algorithms. By offering both the problem solving approach busy clinicians need to resolve issues encountered in everyday practice and an evidence based foundation, this reference helps impact positive change in the workplace. HIV and Breastfeeding Pamela Morrison, 2022-02-24 In the early 1980s it was discovered that HIV, the virus that causes AIDS, could be passed through a mother's milk to her baby. Almost overnight in the industrialised countries and later in the African countries most ravaged by HIV, breastfeeding became an endangered practice. But in the rush to reduce transmission of HIV, everything we already knew about breastfeeding's life saving effects was overlooked with devastating consequences for mothers and babies. In HIV and Breastfeeding, the untold story, former IBCLC Pamela Morrison, an acknowledged authority on HIV and breastfeeding, reveals how women in the world's most poverty stricken areas were persuaded to abandon breastfeeding as part of a short sighted and deadly policy that led to a humanitarian disaster. The dilemma that breastfeeding, an act of nurturing which confers food, comfort and love, could be at once life saving yet lethal, has been called the ultimate paradox. This critical account reveals how vital breastfeeding is even in the most difficult of circumstances and examines the lessons that can be learned from the mistakes of the past, which is particularly relevant as we deal with the consequences for mothers and babies of another global pandemic, Covid 19. With detailed information for HIV positive mothers and their caregivers and success stories from mothers themselves, this book is essential reading for anyone involved in protecting and supporting breastfeeding or with a need for evidence based information about breastfeeding and HIV. Breastfeeding the Newborn Marie Biancuzzo, 2003 This practical resource provides the scientific basis and the how to techniques to help the mother establish a milk supply and to confirm that the newborn is breastfeeding successfully before discharge. Promoting breastfeeding at the personal, interpersonal and system levels, this second edition delivers evidence based care across the health illness continuum.
