Fostering Sustainable Development Nwanze Okidegbe,1997-01-01 Peace and reconstruction efforts in 1996 dramatically altered the landscape of Bosnia and Herzegovina and brought many tangible benefits to its people These efforts have already led to improvements in the areas of health education unemployment and infrastructure repair Sustaining and broadening the positive developments of the past year will be the key task for the country and the international community in 1997-98. This country study examines the near-term reform issues that are essential to generating employment and providing a firm institutional and policy foundation for reconstruction and sustained economic growth. The main areas of emphasis will be on policy and budget reforms involving institutions for macroeconomic management and bank and enterprise privatization and reforms affecting labor markets and the social safety net.

OECD Public Governance Reviews: Uzbekistan Towards a More Modern, Effective and Strategic Public Administration OECD, 2024-11-06. Governments worldwide face a complex landscape marked by short-term crises, long-term priorities, declining public trust, and the pressing need for environmental and digital transformation. To effectively address these challenges, public administrations must evolve, emphasising strategic planning, performance management, inter-agency collaboration, and evidence-based policies. Uzbekistan, committed to far-reaching public governance reforms, has navigated significant external pressures and geopolitical evolutions. These crises, alongside persistent domestic challenges such as socio-economic inequality and gaps in public service delivery, have spurred Uzbekistan to seek innovative and effective solutions. Through its national strategic plans, the country aims to build a modern public administration capable of providing justice and meeting citizens' needs. This OECD Public Governance Review assesses Uzbekistan's governance system. To support the country's reforms and boost the efficiency and effectiveness of its public administration, the review provides recommendations aligned with OECD standards on enhancing policy coordination and strategic planning, civil service capacity, public integrity, and regulatory quality.

Economic and Development Policies, 2010. Juta's Statutes of South Africa South Africa, 2004. Does performatization foster intellectual stagnation? Nadine Butzhammer, 2020-04-15. Seminar paper from the year 2018 in the subject Business economics Business Management Corporate Governance grade 1.0 University of Innsbruck language English abstract. While it may be reasonable to believe that a lack of institutional incentives is detrimental in terms of research productivity, a sophisticated and intrusive system of rewards and surveillance focused on performance measurement may stifle innovation. The above statement by Gendron (2008) raises the question: How much is too much? The present seminar thesis shall explain in which status of performance thinking, accompanied by rewards, the higher education sector is situated and which implications follow out of this for research activities of universities in particular. Concretely, the research question: Does performatization foster intellectual stagnation shall be examined. For this purpose, a literature study has been operated which encompasses inter alia renowned authors like Alvesson, Gendron, Hopwood, Humphrey, Parker, and Sandberg. The seminar thesis is set up as follows: It starts with a brief overview about the presence of performance thinking in academia and its emergence Thereupon the actual main part follows which deals with the examination of the consequences triggered by performativity After limiting the thesis to the university s activity of research and more precisely to the performance indicator of journal rankings in particular firstly positive consequences and subsequently negative consequences are examined As a next step change attempts and resistance against the performativity movement in general and against specific consequences out of it are introduced In the final discussion chapter the previous findings are illuminated from different angels and in this course also reflected and brought into wider context The seminar thesis ends with a short summary of the outcomes and a personal notation of the author
