The National System of Political Economy - Imperium Press Friedrich List,2022-03-04 Friedrich List is the father of economic nationalism and the historical school of economics Responding to Adam Smith s free market apologetics in The National System of Political Economy List provides a theoretical basis for state intervention in the economy But he does much more than this as part of a wider trend in European thought List affirms the primacy of history in developing our worldview The National System of Political Economy does not begin with theory but with history In so doing List shows that England s rise as a commercial power was not facilitated by free markets but by protectionism drawing his theory from historical fact rather than the other way around List s avowed liberalism is overshadowed by his illiberal priors and so the economic history of the 20th century was one of Listian principles being put to use by illiberal regimes such as Russia China and Germany His thought also governed the economic policy of another developmental state for over a century America Smith and Marx formed the basis of 20th century economic theory But Friedrich List stands as a colossus astride the 20th century forming the basis of economic practice for all major powers until mid century In his introduction to this edition Francis O Beirne shows that the great economic clash has never been between capitalism and socialism but between capitalism and nationalism with Marxism a revolutionary force but an economic irrelevancy The Principles of Political Economy John R. Principles of Political Economy Francis Bowen, 2015-06-26 Excerpt from Principles of Political Economy Applied to the Condition the Resources and the Institutions of the American People Political Economy says Mr Samuel Laing is not a universal science of which the principles are applicable to all men under all circumstances and equally good and true for all nations but every country has a Political Economy of its own suitable to its own physical circumstances of position on the globe climate soil products and to the habits character and idiosyncrasy of its inhabitants formed or modified by such physical circumstances I am not prepared to accept this remark in all its generality for if it were true it would follow not only that Political Economy is not a universal science but that it is no science at all inasmuch as universal applicability as Mr Laing himself observes is the distinguishing characteristic and test of every branch of knowledge that claims the dignity of real science But the habits and dispositions of men as manifested in the pursuit of wealth may be reduced to general principles and thus become subjects of legitimate scientific classification and inquiry just as much as those other habits and dispositions which are manifested in the constitution and conduct of organized society and which when generalized and classified become the science of Politics There is a general science of Human Nature of which the special sciences of Ethics Psychology Aesthetics Politics and Political Economy are so many departments all founded upon the essential unity of the human mind and character and the consequent similarity of its manifestations under similar circumstances About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
