Contrastive Analysis vs. Error Analysis in Respect of their Treatment of the Avoidance Phenomenon Elena

Gluth, 2020-04-06 Seminar paper from the year 2003 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Linguistics grade 1 5 Free University of Berlin Institut für Englische Philologie language English abstract This research paper compares contrastive analysis with the error analysis approach in respect of their treatment of avoidance behaviour. It considers several researches on avoidance behaviour and shows that contrastive analysis predicts the avoidance phenomenon in most cases and therefore gives a complete description of the areas of difficulty for learners of a second language. There exist two different approaches for the identification of possible learning problems in the second language acquisition: contrastive analysis and error analysis. A number of proponents of an error analysis approach claim that contrastive analysis cannot serve as an adequate tool for identifying the areas of difficulty for learners of a second language. But on the other hand, it has been noticed that error analysis is not able to explain the avoidance phenomenon since error analysis registers only the errors done by learners of a second language. Avoidance behaviour represents a communicative strategy of a learner of a second language by which the learner prefers using a simpler form instead of the target linguistic element for the reason of difficulty on the part of the target feature. Consequently, avoidance behaviour serves as a manifestation of learning problems and its results should be definitely considered when compiling language syllabi and tests. Errors in Language Learning and Use Carl James, 2013-12-02 Errors in Language Learning and Use is an up-to-date introduction and guide to the study of errors in language and is also a critical survey of previous work. Error Analysis occupies a central position within Applied Linguistics and seeks to clarify questions such as: Does correctness matter? Is it more important to speak fluently and write imaginatively or to communicate one's message? Carl James provides a scholarly and well-illustrated theoretical and historical background to the field of Error Analysis. The reader is led from definitions of error and related concepts to categorization of types of linguistic deviance, discussion of error gravities, the utility of teacher correction and towards writing learner profiles. Throughout the text is guided by considerable practical experience in language education in a range of classroom contexts worldwide. Contrastive Study on Spanish and English Beatriz Berruti, 2000 Bilinguality and Bilingualism Josiane F. Hamers, Michel Blanc, 1989-02-16 The study of bilingualism, the subject of this important textbook, is no longer exclusively an academic preoccupation but is a practical necessity in today's multilingual world. Over the past decades, researchers from a wide range of disciplines (linguistics, psychology, neurology, and sociology) have been fragmented and often inaccessible to students. Bilinguality and Bilingualism, a thoroughly revised and updated version of the authors' textbook published in French, provides a comprehensive critical review of current research focusing on the need for genuinely explanatory accounts and the development of satisfactory theoretical models. The book explores the way in which bilingualism develops in childhood or later on its social, neurological, and psychological foundations and on the social and cultural consequences of bilingualism. It also explores the wider issues of languages in contact both psycholinguistic research to language teaching translation and interpreting and also language planning and policy making The multidisciplinary material is deftly and logically organised to provide a refreshingly clear synthesis which will be invaluable to students and also to specialists who want an up to date account of research in different disciplines It will also be an important reference work for language teachers and for professionals involved in language planning and multilingual education
