Notes on Alex La Guma's A Walk in the Night Jimmi Makotsi-Makotsi, 1985 Comparative Approaches to African Literatures Bernth Lindfors, 1994 Some of the essays in this book notably those concerned with examining Western influences on sub Saharan African writings tracing Shakespearean and Brechtian echoes in Nigerian drama for instance or following the footprints of Sherlock Holmes in Swahili detective fiction fit the traditional definition of comparative literature These are essays that cross national literary boundaries and sometimes transcend language barriers as well They look for correspondences in related literary phenomena from widely dispersed areas of the globe bringing together what is akin from what is akimbo But most of the essays included here involve closer comparisons Two focus on works produced in different languages within the same African nation Yoruba and English in Nigeria Afrikaans and English in South Africa and one presents a taxonomy of dominant literary forms in English in three East African nations Others concentrate on the oeuvre of a single author and on the likely future output of exiled writers who soon will be returning home One essay contrasts discursive tendencies within the same text and another investigates conflicting African and Western religious beliefs A great variety of comparative methodologies is deployed here not all of these are transnational multilingual or pluralistic in scope The last two groups of essays deal with matters of characterization and authorial reputation Studies of the depiction of African Americans politicians and women in a wide range of African literary texts are followed by an assessment of the current standing of anglophone Africa's leading authors In entering such highly contested terrain the comparatist approach adopted has been that of the neutral witness to early African attempts comparatist in their own way to define an African canon of classic texts Authors discussed include Ama Ata Aidoo Ghana Chinua Achebe John Pepper Clark Cyprian Ekwensi D O Fagunwa Wole Soyinka and Amos Tutuola Nigeria Peter Abrahams J M Coetzee Nadine Gordimer Alex La Guma Thomas Mofolo Es kia Mphahlele and Karel Schoeman South Africa

Not White Enough, Not Black Enough Mohamed Adhikari, 2005-11-17 The concept of Colouredness being neither white nor black has been pivotal to the brand of racial thinking particular to South African society The nature of Coloured identity and its heritage of oppression has always been a matter of intense political and ideological contestation Not White Enough Not Black Enough Racial Identity in the South African Coloured Community is the first systematic study of Coloured identity its history and its relevance to South African national life Mohamed Adhikari engages with the debates and controversies thrown up by the identity's troubled existence and challenges much of the conventional wisdom associated with it A combination of wide ranging thematic analyses and detailed case studies illustrates how Colouredness functioned as a social identity from the time of its emergence in the late nineteenth century through its adaptation to the postapartheid environment Adhikari demonstrates how the interplay of marginality racial hierarchy assimilationist aspirations negative racial stereotyping class divisions and ideological conflicts helped mold people's sense of Colouredness over the past century Knowledge of this history and of the social and political dynamic that informed the articulation of a separate Coloured identity is vital to an understanding of present day complexities in South Africa Alex La Guma Cecil Anthony Abrahams, 1985
