A Pentecostal Hermeneutic for the Twenty First Century Kenneth

Archer,2004-12-30 The purpose of this book is to present a critically informed contemporary Pentecostal hermeneutic rooted in Pentecostal identity in its stories beliefs and practices As Pentecostals began entering academic communities of higher learning their interpretive methods became both mainstream and modernistic as they adapted the historical critical methods or the so called scientific hermeneutic The proposed hermeneutic contained in this book desires to move beyond the impasse created by Modernity instead pushing Pentecostals into the contemporary context by critically re appropriating early Pentecostal ethos and interpretive practices for a contemporary Pentecostal community The Pentecostal hermeneutic is a three way interaction for theological meaning between the Holy Spirit the Pentecostal community and sacred Scripture rhetorical and symbolic significance of numerals are discussed at length as are the multifaceted characters in the book such as demonic animals locust beasts dragon birds and apocalyptic animals lamb four living creatures The symbolic significance of topographical architectural agricultural and other settings is emphasized The final chapter of the book is a summary of some of the major theological themes of Revelation The volume provides a useful methodology for the study of a much disputed book of the Bible

A Dictionary of Literary, Dramatic, and Cinematic Terms Sylvan Barnet, 1987-07

The development of the English novel in the 18th century Jens Saathoff, 2013-04-08 Essay from the year 1993 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Culture and Applied Geography grade 1 7 University of Dusseldorf Heinrich Heine Anglistisches Institut language English abstract What do Pamela Tristram Tom Robinson Roxana and the Monk have in common They are all the main characters of works that belong to the same literary genre and were written in the 18th century The variety of works is characteristic of the novel which may be one reason for the attractiveness of this literary form Novels can be comic satirical tragic or romantic there are epistolary psychological and Gothic novels All this seems to be a good reason to deal with this literary genre

Remapping the Rise of the European Novel Jenny Mander, 2007

A Study of Settings Appearing in "Young Goodman Brown" by Nathaniel Hawthorne Daniel Obländer, 2010-09 Seminar paper from the year 2007 in the subject English Literature Works grade 2 0 University of Heidelberg Anglistisches Seminar course Proseminar 2 Literaturwissenschaft Poe and Company language English abstract The setting of a story is just as important as the characters that act within the story No narration can stand without a setting the setting is essential and influences every narration Good settings can give a story its final touch and bad chosen settings can destroy a narration In historical narrations the setting is already given and an unchangeable part of the story line In a fictional story on the other hand the setting is part of the fiction and was entirely chosen by the narrator himself He tries to use the setting in favor of his purposes in order to make the story work Very often a setting is selected in order to make a story more authentic or to produce a certain feeling and mood within the reader However in my term paper I will focus on the settings that appear in Young Goodman Brown This is a subject that has not attracted as much attention as other parts of Young Goodman Brown but is without any doubt a very interesting field of study In my study I will try to identify the different settings of the story in diverse ways Thus it is important not only to describe the settings but also to discuss their meaning not only for the story itself but also for the people of the time when Young Goodman Brown was first published It is especially interesting to see what kind of reactions Hawthorne tried to generate with Young Goodman Brown among the Puritan population in New England of which he himself was a part The setting of the forest plays a special role in this case and shows us that people of Hawthorne s time had a different connection to their environment and to nature than we do today The early Puritans who came to New England had a very difficult relationship to their new wild and uncultivated enviro
