Tanning Of Fish Skin:

Fish Leather Tanning and Sewing with Traditional Methods, 2021 The use of fish skin is an ancient tradition in societies found along rivers and coasts all over the world In order to use the skins they need to be prepared in a way that they keep the strength and flexibility present in their raw condition This book contains recipes on how you can tan your fish skin with ingredients from everyday life such as rapeseed oil egg and bark The book does also include sewing instructions and patterns Lotta Rahme has a tannery and a studio in the medieval town of Sigtuna in Sweden Production of high-value products from the by-products of aquatic food processing Li, R.; Meng, J. ,2024-12-12 The processing of aquatic food generates substantial by products including animal heads skins bones scales visceral organs and shells etc which can constitute between 30 percent and 70 percent of the whole body of aquatic organisms These by products retain numerous bioactive molecules suitable for extraction and application in the nutraceutical functional food pharmaceutical biomedical cosmetic and material industries and have the potential to yield high value products The transition from aquatic food waste to high value products presents multiple benefits including i enhanced human nutrition and health through nutrient and bioactive component provision ii mitigation of environmental pollution by reducing waste and iii improved economic returns because aquatic food waste is transformed into high value products rather than low value animal feeds or fertilizers This guide presents strategic and technical insights by outlining key principles for producing high value items including collagen gelatine bioactive peptides chitin chitosan chondroitin sulphate fish leather and fish oil from the by products of aquatic food processing The Leather Manufacturer, 1910 Hide Stretching Craft Logan Bell, AI, 2025-02-27 Hide Stretching Craft explores the crucial history of hide tanning and its vital role in family clothing production and self sufficiency More than just a manual it examines how this craft shaped communities and passed down essential skills across generations The book uniquely blends detailed technical instruction with in depth historical and cultural analysis demonstrating how the two are inextricably linked The book guides readers through the entire tanning process starting with different types of hides and the necessary tools It systematically explores various tanning methods such as brain tanning and vegetable tanning analyzing their chemical processes and the qualities each imparts to the finished leather Later sections focus on crafting clothing from tanned hides including patterns and sewing methods This approach provides a comprehensive understanding of traditional crafts and historical techniques relevant for both history enthusiasts and those interested in homesteading Hide Stretching Craft argues that hide tanning was a cornerstone of family independence connecting them to the natural world By mastering this craft families reduced their dependence on external markets fostering a deeper understanding of resource management The book draws upon historical accounts anthropological studies and experimental archaeology offering a rich perspective on how families created essential leather goods and family clothing Biological Materials of Marine Origin Hermann Ehrlich, 2014-12-01 This is the second monograph by the author on biological materials of marine origin The initial book is dedicated to the biological materials of marine invertebrates This work is a source of modern knowledge on biomineralization biomimetics and materials science with respect to marine vertebrates For the first time in scientific literature the author gives the most coherent analysis of the nature origin and evolution of biocomposites and biopolymers isolated from and observed in the broad variety of marine vertebrate organisms fish reptilian birds and mammals and within their unique hierarchically organized structural formations There is a wealth of new and newly synthesized information including dozens of previously unpublished images of unique marine creatures including extinct extant and living taxa and their biocomposite based structures from nano to micro and macroscale This monograph reviews the most relevant advances in the marine biological materials research field pointing out several approaches being introduced and explored by distinct modern laboratories
