Ten Fundamental Questions Of Curating:

Ten Fundamental Questions of Curating Jens Hoffmann (curator), 2013 It has become almost obligatory to introduce a book on curating by noting the plethora of recent publications on the subject How in just a few short years did we reach this point of saturation What questions exactly do all these books address Many attempt to offer an overview of the curatorial field as it exists today or attempt to map its historical trajectory Others propose a series of case studies under a common curatorial theme All are hoping to contribute to this relatively new discipline and its accompanying canon Edited by Jens Hoffmann Ten Fundamental Questions of Curating offers a real critique of existing publications and modes of thinking by explicitly asking the questions that others have missed ignored or deemed already answered What is a curator What is the public What is art What about collecting What is an exhibition Why mediate art What to do with the contemporary What about responsibility What is the process How about pleasure Here Peter Eleey Elena Filipovic Juan A Gait n Sof a Hern ndez Chong Cuy Maria Lind Chus Mart nez Jessica Morgan Adriano Pedrosa Jo o Ribas and Dieter Roelstraete each propose and then address one question Ten Fundamental Questions of Curating takes a back to basics approach a return to a kind of zero degree state at a time when a recalibration of what a curator is and does seems both necessary and urgent Contemporary Curating, Artistic Reference and Public Reception Stéphanie Bertrand, 2021-07-31 Contemporary Curating Artistic Reference and Public Reception undertakes a unique critical survey and analysis of prevailing group exhibition making practices in Europe the UK and North America Drawing on curatorial literature and two in depth case studies of group exhibitions Bertrand advocates for a mode of curatorial practice that secures the content of artworks in contrast to prevailing open ended indeterminate approaches Proposing a third exhibition type beyond the current binary exhibition ontology that opposes art historical narratives to curatorial installations or Gesamtkunstwerk the book directly tackles the enduring critique of curating as a mediating activity that produces sameness in group exhibition contexts by establishing artistic equivalences The book relies on the principles of analytical philosophy to assess how different exhibition making approaches fix reference and determine artistic reception reintroducing a standard to evaluate exhibitions beyond personal taste and thematic coherence Bertrand ultimately proposes an alternative conception of practice that affirms the renewed relevance of the institutional group show in the present context Contemporary Curating Artistic Reference and Public Reception will be of interest to academics researchers and students working in museum and curatorial studies visual cultures art theory and art history programmes Art theorists and critics as well as curators of contemporary art with a research based practice should also find much to interest them within the pages of the book

Decolonial Aesthetics of Blackness in Contemporary Art Nkosinkulu, Zingisa, 2024-09-13 Decolonial aesthetics of Blackness in contemporary art challenge and redefine traditional narratives offering a profound critique of historical and ongoing injustices This approach emphasizes the reclamation and celebration of Black cultural identities through innovative artistic expressions that resist colonialist frameworks and oppressive stereotypes By emphasizing the experiences and perspectives of Black artists decolonial aesthetics challenge the power structures presented in art history and highlight the significance of autonomy representation and authenticity To advance this dialogue it is crucial to support and engage with Black artists and their work ensuring that their voices are amplified and their contributions are recognized within art discourse Decolonial Aesthetics of Blackness in Contemporary Art focuses on the generative audio and visual inscription of blackness as an offering of life and beauty in contemporary art It discusses the concept of blackness related to modernity decolonial aesthetics and ontology of black life and beauty This book covers topics such as decolonization visual art and sociology and is a useful resource for art historians visual artists sociologists academicians scientists and researchers

Curating and Politics Gerd Elise Mørland, Heidi Bale Amundsen, 2025-02-07 Discover the Hidden Layers of Exhibition Politics Since the 1990s the discourse on curating has often centered around the figure of the professional curator viewing exhibition politics as a direct result of curatorial intent However contemporary shifts in institutional models funding policies and collection strategies have unveiled realms of curatorial practice that lie beyond the curator's control This groundbreaking volume brings together essays by renowned art theorists and cultural scholars moving beyond the traditional focus on the curator It delves into the often overlooked dimensions of exhibition politics uncovering uncharted territories of influence and decision making Perfect for professionals students and anyone interested in the evolving landscape of art exhibitions this book challenges conventional perspectives and offers invaluable insights into the complex interplay of curation institutions and external forces shaping the art world today Key Features In depth essays from leading experts in art theory and cultural studies A fresh perspective on curatorial practices and exhibition politics A must read for anyone exploring the dynamics of art institutions and curation

The Curatorial Conundrum Paul O'Neill, Mick Wilson, Lucy Steeds, 2016-05-20 The future of curatorial practice how education research and institutions can adapt to the expansion of the curatorial field Today curators are sometimes more famous than the artists whose work they curate and curatorship involves more than choosing objects for an exhibition. The expansion of the curatorial field in recent decades has raised questions about exhibition making itself and the politics of production, display and distribution. The Curatorial Conundrum looks at the burgeoning field of curatorship and tries to imagine its future. Indeed practitioners and theorists consider a variety of futures: the future of curatorial education, the future of curatorial research, the future of curatorial and artistic practice and the institutions that will make these other futures possible. The contributors examine the proliferation of graduate programs in curatorial studies over the last twenty years and consider what can be taught without giving up what is precisely curatorial within the ever expanding parameters of curatorial practice in recent times. They discuss curating as collaborative research, asking what happens when exhibition operates as a mode of research in its own right. They explore curatorial practice as an exercise in questioning the world around us and they speculate about what it will take to build new innovative and progressive curatorial research institutions.

Cautionary Tales, Steven Rand, Heather Kouris, 2007. Ten international art related professionals consider the increased influence of independent curators and cultural producers and how the role of the curator has changed over the last ten years. Using examples from past exhibitions and personal experiences, the writers address how working within an institution differs from being independent, the difficulties of balancing artistic vision with expectations of funders and institutions and the ethical issues of working with artists and collectors among many other subjects. A resource text for students and others interested in the curatorial field. Cautionary Tales: Critical Curating will provide valuable and interesting reading for students considering a curatorial career and others interested in current trends in today's art world.
