STANDBY POWER RATING: Applicable for supplying emergency power for the duration of the utility power outage, the overrated capability is available for this rating. Under no condition is an engine allowed to operate in parallel with the public utility at the Standby Power rating. This rating should be applied where reliable utility power is available. A Standby rated engine should be rated for a maximum of an 75% average load factor and 200-hours of operation per year. This includes less than 5 hours per year at the Standby Power rating. Standby ratings should never be applied except in true emergency power outages. Regulated power outages contracted with a utility company are not considered an emergency.

Standby values are based on 15 in Hg oil intake restriction and 5 in Hg exhaust back pressure.

This fuel consumption data is based on No. 2 diesel fuel weight and 60 kg/litre (12.1 lbs) U.S. gal.
