People And Pollution Cultural Constructions And Social Action In Egypt:

People and Pollution Nicholas S. Hopkins, Sohair Mehanna, Salah el- Hagggar, 2001 Environmental pollution is a concern of many people in Egypt and the world in general People and Pollution is a study of how Egyptians in particular understand environmental problems and what their roles are in the solutions This original study is based on extensive field research with both academic and policy relevance The uniqueness of the book comes from its focus instead of the usual approach of analyzing policy and measurements this text seeks to understand how the people themselves often the objects of policy understand their environment and their own actions An interesting finding from the research lies in the focus of Egyptian concerns Rather than the global perspective the depletion of the ozone layer protection of coral reefs and rainforests and so on that is common in the West Egyptians are mainly concerned with matters of immediate environmental degradation such as garbage sewage dirty streets and noise pollution In addition the researchers have found that people are often able to effect changes themselves through cooperation with neighbors thus bypassing the official channels of redress such as NGOs and local government officials The difference in focus of concern and courses of action may be extrapolated to many Third World or developing nations and leads to provocative questions regarding policymaking for public participation in future environmental campaigns Descriptive views from the authors eloquent and moving testimony from members of the community and clear statistical analysis of the findings make this book a highly readable text People and Pollution is a pioneering and important work that should be consulted by environmentally concerned readers students and policymakers alike

People and Pollution Nicholes S.Hopkins, Sohair Mehanna, Salah el- Hagggar, 2001 This study looks at how Egyptians in particular understand environmental problems and what their roles are in the solutions The focus of Egyptian concerns lies not in the Western global perspective but immediate environmental degradation including sewage garbage and noise pollution

Environmental Politics in Egypt Jeannie Sowers, 2013-06-26 Drawing on extensive fieldwork conducted in

Egypt from the late 1990s to 2011 this book shows how experts and activists used distinctive approaches to influence state and firm decision making in three important environmental policy domains These include industrial pollution from large scale industry the conservation of threatened habitat and water management of the irrigation system These cases show how environmental networks sought to construct legal discursive and infrastructural forms of authority within the context of a fragmented state apparatus and a highly centralized political regime Managerial networks composed of environmental scientists technocrats and consultants sought to create new legal regimes for environmental protection and to frame environmental concerns so that they would appeal to central decision makers Activist networks in contrast emerged where environmental pollution or exclusion from natural resources threatened local livelihoods and public health These networks publicized their concerns and mobilized broader participation through the creative use of public space media coverage and strategic use of existing state sanctioned organizations With the increased popular mobilization of the 2000s and the mass protests of the 2011 revolution environmental politics has become highly topical Expert and activist networks alike have sought to broaden their appeal and diversify their approaches The result may well be a more contested participatory and dynamic phase in Egyptian environmentalism

Handbook of Transitions to Energy and Climate Security Robert Looney, 2016-11-25 An original contribution to our understanding of a phenomenon that is reshaping the world this title thoroughly discusses the transformation of the energy security policy arena brought on by two dramatic developments the increased potential availability of energy in many parts of the world on the supply side and on the demand side increasing concerns over the harmful effects on the environment brought on by the use of fossil fuels An in depth discussion specifically focuses on what energy security means to different countries and examines which of those countries appear to be managing their energy climate transitions successfully and which are having a more difficult time adapting to the new environment Part 1 introduces the topic covering the main themes and provides an overview of the chapters Part 2 provides a framework for policy evaluation considering the evolving factors affecting energy security and the energy climate policy trilemma Parts 3 to 6 discuss energy transitions in the carbon producing countries Saudi Arabia Canada Iran Russia Mexico in intermediate carbon producing consuming countries China United States UK Brazil Argentina South Africa in carbon consuming countries Germany Japan South Korea Israel India Spain and finally in carbon reduction countries France Denmark Switzerland Part 7 looks at attempts at regional international cooperation Part 8 considers the prospects for the future examining technological breakthroughs This title builds on the theme of unfolding energy transformations driven by but increasingly constrained by climate environmental considerations It is ideal for researchers and students in the areas of environmental politics and policy climate change and energy and climate security as well as for academics and professionals
