Michael R. Matthews, 2017-08-30 This anthology opens new perspectives in the domain of history philosophy and science teaching research Its four sections are first science culture and education second the teaching and learning of science third curriculum development and justification and fourth indoctrination The first group of essays deal with the neglected topic of science education and the Enlightenment tradition These essays show that many core commitments of modern science education have their roots in this tradition and consequently all can benefit from a more informed awareness of its strengths and weaknesses Other essays address research on learning and teaching from the perspectives of social epistemology and educational psychology Included here is the first ever English translation of Ernst Mach's most influential 1890 paper on The Psychological and Logical Moment in Natural Science Teaching This paper launched the influential Machian tradition in education Other essays address concrete cases of the utilisation of history and philosophy in the development and justification of school science curricula These are instances of the supportive relation of HPS a subject long discussed in philosophy of education but inadequately in science education This book is a timely reminder of why history and philosophy of science are urgently needed to support understanding of science From major traditions such as the Enlightenment to the tensions around cultural studies of science the book provides a comprehensive context for the scientific endeavour drawing on curriculum and instructional examples Sibel Erduran University of Oxford UK The scholarship that each of the authors in this volume offers deepens our understanding of what we teach in science and why that understanding matters This is an important book exploring a wide set of issues and should be read by anyone with an interest in science or science education Jonathan Osborne Stanford University USA This volume presents new and updated perspectives in the field such as the Enlightenment Tradition Cultural Studies Indoctrination in Science Education and Nature of Science Highly recommended Mansoor Niaz Universidad de Oriente Venezuela This volume provides an extremely valuable set of insights into educational issues related to the history and philosophy of science Michael J Reiss University College London UK History, Philosophy, and Science Teaching Michael R. Ruitenberg,D.C. Phillips,2011-09-24 In the recent educational research literature it has been asserted that ethnic or cultural groups have their own distinctive epistemologies and that these have been given short shrift by the dominant social group Educational research then is pursued within a framework that embodies assumptions about knowledge and knowledge production that reflect the interests and historical traditions of this dominant group In such arguments however some relevant philosophical issues remain unresolved such as what claims about culturally distinctive epistemologies mean precisely and how they relate to traditional epistemological distinctions between beliefs and knowledge Furthermore can these ways of establishing knowledge stand up to critical scrutiny This volume marshals a variety of resources to pursue such open questions in a lively and accessible way a critical literature review analyses from philosophers of education who have different positions on the key issues a roundtable discussion and interactions between the two editors who sometimes disagree It also employs the work of prominent feminist epistemologists who have investigated parallel issues with sophistication This volume does not settle the question of culturally distinctive epistemologies but teases out the various philosophical sociological and political aspects of the issue so that the debate can continue with greater clarity
