THE TAO OF ARCHITECTURE

In a contemplative essay that develops a parallel between void, space, time, and the science of vision in Laozi's philosophy and in modern architecture, Anon Yi Tiao Chung reveals the quality of emptiness, or negative elements. He writes that these qualities make architectural forms "come alive, become human, naturally harmonious with one another, and enable us to experience them with human sensibility."

The author expands Frank Lloyd Wright's thoughts on the affinity between Laozi's philosophy and modern Western architecture by discussing "Natural Life Movement in Architectural Vision," "Variability and Complement," "Balance and Equilibrium," and "Individuality and Unity." He accompanies his text with architectural drawings and four Chinese paintings.

"An extremely captivating and thought-provoking essay."—Clay Lancaster, Architectural Record

Anon Yi Tiao Chung was formerly a practicing architect in Bangkok, and now is Professor of Architecture at Kansas State University.
