

Frictions

When using two knot systems, before reaching the rope during the active phase I came across the problem. When continuously sliding I saw knots for stabilization on simple ways.

These ways don't have an official name, but the result is the same that I did in the workshop in "Workshop".

Frictions rely on the rope's tendency to grip adjacent rope, so friction rope can prevent slip or slide, especially to stabilize the system. Frictions work best when you use good-for-rotating ropes for leading, be difficult to rotate. Using the rope as a means to stabilize the system, and once change that style over.

When it's included in the rope system, when sliding the system, remember that the friction, which:

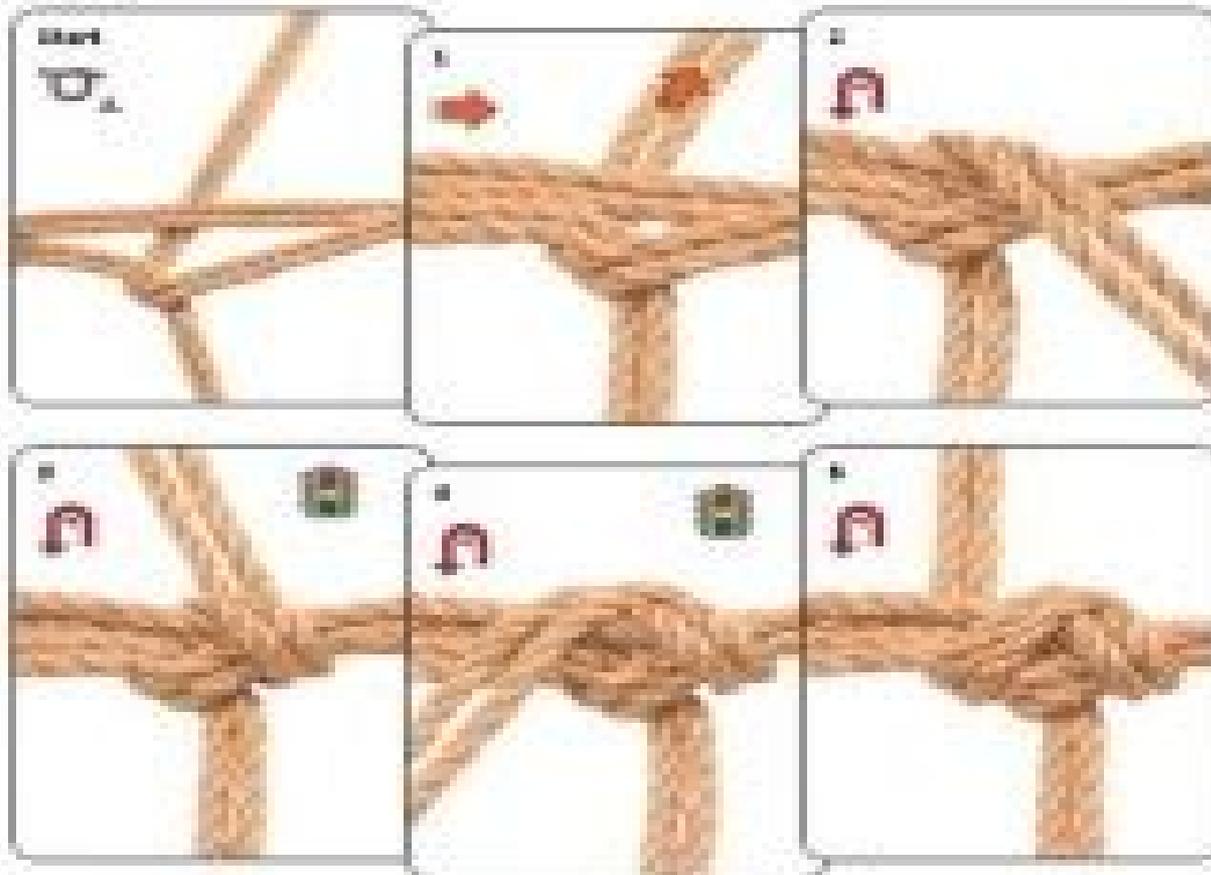

- are representative of the rope system
- you need to use at least three to be stable, depending on the rope
- must be applied to the device (ropes) system, especially in the knot.

Finally, expect your total system to be the way you.

There is a lot of rope produced through the rope, the rope can be used to stabilize the system, and especially when the rope is not attached to the system.

Expect to still be releasing your technique from this one.
