Activity 1: Studying the Effect of Blood Vessel Radius on Blood Flow Rate

1. Explain how the body establishes a pressure gradient for blood flow. The body establishes a pressure gradient for blood flow by having a difference in pressure at each end of the vessel.
2. Explain how effect that the flow rate within a single vessel on flow rate. Flow rate will increase, regardless of vessel length, as pressure gradient will increase in blood flow. This is what is predicted mathematically.
3. Describe how, although total radius changes, flow is not the same. Flow is not the same because flow is a function of that blood vessel in fully open vessels.
4. Why do you think that what you saw occur? (Think: Look at the relationship of the variables in the equation.) Flow will not be the same because with your prediction, the radius was measured differently. But, the flow was measured using which variable? Graphs being covered. I predicted that it would not be the same.

Activity 2: Studying the Effects of Blood Viscosity on Blood Flow Rate

1. Describe the components in the blood that affect viscosity. Plasma, proteins, white blood cells, and red blood cells affect viscosity.
2. Explain how effect that the viscosity changes had on flow rate. Flow rate will increase, regardless of vessel length, pressure gradient, and a decreased blood flow rate, in shorter vessels. I predicted it they had a lower rate, proportionally for each vessel, and was correct.
3. Describe the graph of flow versus viscosity. Experimental showed that viscosity and flow are proportional.
4. Discuss the effect that your physical manipulation on the body and predicted flow. Polycythemia is an increase in the red blood cells. This results from a decrease in oxygenating result with a decrease in blood flow.

Activity 3: Studying the Effect of Blood Vessel Length on Blood Flow Rate

1. What is the main body mechanism to change in blood vessel length or a change in vessel vessel length? Vessel will change in blood vessel length to make body to react. This will be done more frequently and decrease in the body.
