Instructor's manual*, Edward Bradford Titchener, 1901. The general purpose with which this book has been written is sufficiently indicated by its title. I have selected a number of the classical experiments of Experimental Psychology and have tried to present them in such a way that their performance shall have a real disciplinary value for the undergraduate student. Within this general purpose, my aim has been two-fold: I have sought to show in the first place that psychology is above the laboratory; that we employ our instruments of precision not for their own sake but solely because they help us to a refined and more accurate introspection. And secondly, just as in my Outline of Psychology and Primer of Psychology I gave the results of experimentation a prominent place in the psychological system, so here I have treated the selected experiments not as separate exercises but as points of departure for systematic discussion PsycINFO Database Record c 2005 APA all rights reserved The Journal of Educational Research ,1929 The Houghton Mifflin Study Skills Handbook James F.
