Soil and Water Conservation Frederick R. Troeh,James Arthur Hobbs,Roy Luther Donahue,2004 Written from an agronomic rather than an engineering perspective this introduction to soil and water conservation explores a full range of topics and environmental issues including some ignored or overlooked in other books on the subject Comprehensive up to date and accessible it considers the hazards posed by erosion sedimentation and pollution and describes the techniques needed to conserve soil and maintain environmental quality Situations and examples are drawn from many places to represent a cross section of the soils climates and cultures of the world as well as the full scope of agricultural engineering mining and other uses of the land The volume covers conserving soil and water soil erosion and civilization geologic erosion and sedimentation water erosion and sedimentation wind erosion and deposition predicting soil loss soil surveys as a basis for land use planning cropping systems tillage practices for conservation conservation structures vegetating drastically disturbed areas pastureland rangeland and forestland management water conservation soil drainage irrigation and reclamation soil pollution water quality and pollution economics of soil and water conservation soil and water conservation agencies in the United States and soil and water conservation around the world For professionals that deal with soil and water conservation Environment and Development Jagbir Singh,2005 In the last 100 years mankind has managed to destroy much of what it took nature millions of years to create At no point in history has so much damage been done to our natural heritage in such a short amount of time If something needed to be done to stop this crime against our future generations then now is the time to act as with every passing day we are speeding towards a self inflicted doomsday What is killing our ecology and environment is generally known What we need are solutions and ways of implementing them This International Conference on Environment and Development Challenges and Opportunities held on March 4 6 2005 at the University of Delhi India is one such step The conference presented the most up to date ideas on solving problems both ecological and environmental which mankind has brought upon itself Handbook on Environment Statistics ,2002

Local Environmental Change and Society in Africa Mohamed Salih,2000-06-30 Social and natural scientists are currently obsessed with globalization but this has not been matched by an equal interest in the societal consequences of local environmental change Attention has thus been withdrawn from community and locality and transferred to global processes with an indifference to the reality of those at the receiving end of the social economic and political problems that globalization create Local reality is obscured and conditions are imposed that are often insensitive to or even distort local needs resource management and production systems The case studies presented here illustrate how environmental degradation has contributed to the distortion of local institutions and economies thus denying local communities the right to live in a productive and healthy environment The contributors highlight the seriousness of the difficulties involved in conflating national policies and local reality and imposing global policy instruments on local communities Understandably the case studies demonstrate that local communities resist putting their faith in environmental policies and plans imposed on them by global or national institutions that often deprive them of access to and control over their local environment
