Postmodifying Attributive Adjectives in English Lars M. Blöhdorn, 2009 This study investigates three different postmodifying adjective constructions in the English language While English adjectives generally precede the entities they modify they may also occur in postmodifying position This study assumes that the different postmodifying constructions are a positional variation of attributive premodification The support for this claim is derived from a detailed analysis of the general syntax and semantics of adjectives as well as a cross check of previous theories with a wide range of actual language examples taken from computerized corpora An approach from the Prague School Functional Sentence Perspective enables this study to accomplish an integrated view of adjectival

grounding in the largest linguistic corpus ever available In this fourth edition Garner has made extensive use of corpus linguistics to include ratios of standard terms as compared against variants in modern print sources No other resource provides as comprehensive reliable and empirical a guide to current English usage For all concerned with writing and editing GMEU will prove invaluable as a desk reference Garner illustrates with actual examples cited with chapter and verse all the linguistic blunders that modern writers and speakers are prone to whether in word choice syntax phrasing punctuation or pronunciation No matter how knowledgeable you may already be you re sure to learn from every single page of this book
