Decision Making and Problem Solving in Organizations: Assessing and Expanding the Carnegie Perspective

Daniella Laureiro Martinez, Pino Audia, Daniel A. Newark, 2024-09-04 Within the broader study of decision making the Carnegie perspective occupies a unique place Initially developed by pioneering scholars such as Herbert Simon and James March it views organizational decisions as resulting from the combined influences of a psychological processes of attention allocation interpretation of experience and motivated search and b features of the organizational context that direct attention influence preferences contend with ambiguity contain conflict and divide labor Despite its unique strengths and a considerable body of work see below some foundational references research that adopts the Carnegie perspective is still relatively unknown outside the field of organization studies As James March noted Carnegie has been primarily an importer of ideas rather than an exporter The goal of this research topic is to facilitate dialogue and integration between this well established Carnegie perspective and other lines of inquiry into the study of decision making and problem solving We are interested in bringing to the fore what is distinctive in the accumulated body of evidence produced by the Carnegie perspective and highlighting similarities differences and potential points of connection with other research done on similar topics To achieve this goal we hope that the front end of each submission will cover the following four components
