1.   Discuss the various forms of regionalism that have emerged in India since independence.

Approach:

- Introduce by giving definition of regionalism and mentioning the factors responsible for it.
- Discuss its various forms that have emerged in India.
- In conclusion, highlight its implications on India.

Answer:

Regionalism is a political ideology that encourages people's loyalties around their region or place of origin. It implies people's love for a particular region in preference to the country and in certain cases in preference to the state of which the region is part. In India, regionalism is rooted in diversity of languages, cultures, tribes, and religions. Furthermore, it is encouraged by the geographical concentration of these identity markers in particular regions, and fuelled by a sense of relative deprivation.

Various forms of regionalism in India

- Demand for autonomy: Soon after independence there was demand in certain states or regions to secede from the Indian Union and become independent sovereign states. The most prominent were that of the Plebiscite Front in Kashmir, Mizo National Front (Lushai Hills of Assam), Nagaland Socialist Conference (Naga Hills District of Assam) etc.
- Supra-state regionalism: It implies more than one state expresses their group identity, which is usually in relation to certain specific issues. However, it does not in any way imply the total and permanent merger of identity of the states into the identity of the group. These groups also witnessed rivalries, tensions and conflicts. For instance, there were agitations in some states, which were against the discontinuation of English as an official language in the 1960s.
- Inter-state regionalism: It emerged because of dispute of state boundaries or overlapping of one or more identities, which threaten their regional interests. Issues such as inter-state river water disputes, in general, and others like the Maharashtra-Karnataka border dispute has led to tensions between states.
- Intra-state regional politics or sub-regionalism: It embodies the desire of a part of a state for identity and self-development and may also reflect a notion of deprivation or exploitation of a part of the state at the expense of another. The important examples of this kind of sub-regionalism are Vidarbha in Maharashtra, Saurashtra in Gujarat, Telangana in Andhra Pradesh, East U.P. in Uttar Pradesh and Chhattisgarh in Madhya Pradesh.
- Sons of the soil theory: It ties people to their place of birth and confers some benefits, rights, roles and responsibilities on them, which may not apply to others. It is accentuated by factors such as competition for resources, jobs, economic disparities, etc. Examples include campaigns for safeguarding of interests of Maharashtrians, clashes among Bodos and Bengali speaking Muslims in Assam, among others.

Since independence, regionalism has led to many agitations and state specific demands. However, it does not always disrupt national solidarity. Instead, it has led to the development of regions and contributed to national integration. Moreover, the Indian Constitution through federalism has created means to accommodate these regional sentiments.
