

Chapter 11: genetics

Genetics is the process by which traits are passed from parent to offspring, or in other words, it is the study of hereditary.

"blending" hypothesis. the main hypothesis for the transmission of the genetic material. The idea is that genetic material contributed by the two parents mixes, just as blue and yellow paints blend to make green. This hypothesis predicts that over many generations a freely mating population will give rise to a uniform population of individuals – something that we just don't see.\

The particulate hypothesis is the gene idea: In this model, parents pass on discrete heritable units – genes – that retain their separate identities in offspring.

Mendel's experiment

Character – heritable feature that varies among individuals, each variant is a trait

True-breeding – in plants that produce offspring of the same variety when they self-pollinate

Hybridization – In genetics, the mating, or crossing, of two true-breeding varieties

P generation- The parent individuals from which offspring are derived in studies of inheritance

F1 generation - The first filial, or hybrid, offspring in a series of genetic crosses

F2 generation -offspring resulting from interbreeding of the hybrid F1 generation

Mendel developed a model to explain the 3:1 inheritance pattern that he consistently observed in the F2 offspring

Mendel's model

1. alternative versions of genes account for variations in inherited characters
2. for each character; an organism inherits two alleles, one from each parent
3. if the two alleles at a locus differ, then one is the dominant allele, while the other is the recessive allele
4. Law of segregation : the two alleles for a heritable character segregates (separate) during gamete formation and end up in different gametes
