Walker, 2008-07-15 This riveting and enlightening narrative unfolds on the night of August 16 1996 with the brutal and senseless murder of Eric Nesbitt a young man stationed at Langley Air Force Base at the hands of 18 year old Daryl Atkins Over the course of more than a decade Atkins's case has bounced between the lowest and the highest levels of the judicial system Found guilty and then sentenced to death in 1998 for Nesbitt's murder the Atkins case was then taken up in 2002 by the U S Supreme Court The issue before the justices given Daryl Atkins's mental retardation would his execution constitute cruel and unusual punishment in violation of the Eighth Amendment A 6-3 vote said yes Daryl Atkins's situation was far from being resolved though Prosecutors claimed that Atkins failed to meet the statutory definition of mental retardation and reinstated procedures to carry out his death sentence Back in circuit court the jury returned its verdict Daryl Atkins was not retarded Atkins's attorneys promptly filed a notice of appeal and the case continues today Drawing on interviews with key participants direct observation of the hearings and close examination of court documents transcripts and press accounts Thomas G Walker provides readers with a rare view of the entire judicial process Never losing sight of the stakes in a death penalty case he explains each step in Atkins's legal journey from the interactions of local law enforcement to the decision making process of the state prosecutor to the Supreme Court's ruling and beyond Walker sheds light on how legal institutions and procedures work in real life and how they are all interrelated to help students better understand constitutional issues the courts and the criminal justice system Throughout Walker also addresses how disability race and other key demographic and social issues affect the case and society's views on the death penalty
