Chapman,Anthony G. Hopwood,Michael D. Shields,2006-12-08 Volume one of the Handbooks of Management Accounting Research sets the context for both Handbooks with three chapters outlining the historical development of management accounting as a discipline and as a practice in three broad geographic settings The bulk of the first volume then draws together a series of contributions that analyse the scholarly literature in terms of distinct intellectual and theoretical social science perspectives The volume includes a chapter which looks at work informed by psychology as a base discipline The volume also includes a set of chapters that seek to evaluate and explain issues of research method for the different approaches to research found within management accounting Special pricing available if purchased as a set with Volume 2

Spiceland,Spiceland-Sepe,2000-04 Heuristic Reasoning in Management Accounting Jörn Sebastian Basel,Jörn Basel,2012 Heuristics are short cuts and deliberately ignore information for instance through examining fewer cues or integrating less information However this collides with a view on management accountants and controllers as rational agents which seems to suggest that all available information should be considered As their role as information supplier is often accompanied with the task to assist managers in their judgment and decision making they have huge influence on these processes Therefore it is of high relevance to know if how and which heuristics management accountants and controllers use Furthermore we need to know which individual and situational factors influence their usage of heuristics With a series of five empirical studies applying a mixed methods research design the author sheds light to these research questions and addresses some central claims of the potential biases but also the stunning benefits of relying on heuristic reasoning Central to his discussion are dual process approaches which are debated in cognitive psychology Scholars of these approaches claim that we should distinguish between two distinct processes or systems of the human mind Following this interpretation heuristics are processes which are described as intuitive automatic fast and unconscious They are routinized cognitive processes which are based on experience in certain social environments and thus often exhibit ecological rationality Overall this book picks up an up to date topic in behavioural accounting research which not only is of relevance for researchers but as well for practitioners
