Diagnosis of aquaculture employment governance in selected African countries Menezes, A., Ligeon, C., Murekezi, P., Jolly, C., 2024-04-17 Many countries are promoting aquaculture as one of the prime drivers of the rural economy and the employment of women and youth Author However the industry is criticized for inadequately representing the needs of workers Author Most African countries have shown a willingness to advance industry goals through domestic programme planning and facilitating foreign direct investment Author However there is a need for coherent strategies for employment governance Author Hence immediate change is required to modify the governance of aquaculture employment to foster industrial transformation Author The objective of this research is to enhance understanding of the governance of aquaculture employment in ten African countries Egypt Ghana Kenya Malawi Nigeria Rwanda Senegal South Africa Uganda and Zambia and to determine their level of compliance with existing employment legislation in those countries Author The ultimate goal is to learn from both positive and negative lessons and propose possible corrective measures for substandard practices in order to improve the public perception of aquaculture Author The study seeks to evaluate existing employment governance in the aquaculture industry and to use the acquired knowledge to inform policymakers and industry leaders on the status of governance in employment Author

Policy guide to improve water productivity in small-scale agriculture Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,2020-05-01 In developing countries further progress of irrigation is essential for increasing food security and farmers income However developing small scale schemes remains a challenge due to multiple factors that must be taken into consideration such as diversity of small scale schemes a large number of water users social disharmony over the water use varying water demands of multi cropping systems heterogeneity of equipment over the scheme Furthermore on farm irrigation development has a major role in enhancing Agricultural Water Management AWM The previous development methods considered the improvement of single factor productivity but agriculture is undergoing a global shift from the single objective of outputs such as yield or net income to multiple objectives of increasing outputs while conserving natural resources Many pathways towards enhancement of Water Productivity WP are directly related to improving overall farm agronomic management irrigation fertilization plant density plant protection etc while external measures must be applied to ensure sustainability of introduced good practices lack of input markets scarce knowledge poor infrastructures water regulations etc Thus introducing irrigation practices to farmers must undergo a step wise process to ensure that costs do not outweigh achievable benefits and both institutional and technical environment are capable to sustain results This is the case in smallholders schemes where farmers are poorly resourced In order to address these issues the current policy guide presents a combined methodology which involves practical experiences drawn from FAO work in the three countries as well as researchers results to line up a set of feasible measures to improving WP

AIDS and Rural Livelihoods Anke Niehof,Gabriel Rugalema,Stuart Gillespie,2019-01-15

AIDS epidemics continue to threaten the livelihoods of millions of people in sub Saharan Africa Three decades after the disease was first recognized the annual death toll from AIDS exceeds that from wars famine and floods combined Yet despite millions of dollars of aid and research there has previously been little detailed on the ground analysis of the multifaceted impacts on rural people Filling that gap this book brings together recent evidence of AIDS impacts on rural households livelihoods and agricultural practice in sub Saharan Africa There is particular emphasis on the role of women in affected households and on the situation of children The book is unique in presenting micro level information collected by original empirical research in a range of African countries and showing how well grounded conclusions on trends impacts and local responses can be applied to the design of HIV responsive policies and programmes AIDS impacts are more diverse than we previously thought and local responses more varied sometimes innovative sometimes desperate The book represents a major contribution to our understanding of the impacts of AIDS in the epidemic s heartland and how these can be managed at different levels

Agricultural Supply Chains, Growth and Poverty in Sub-Saharan Africa Nicolas Depetris Chauvin, Guido Porto, Francis Mulangu, 2017-02-20 This book investigates if and how agricultural market structures and farm constraints affect the development of dynamic food and cash crop sectors and whether these sectors can contribute to economic transformation and poverty reduction in Africa The authors map the current cash and food crops supply chains in six African countries characterizing their markets structures and domestic competition policies At the farm level the book studies the constraints faced by small holders to increase productivity and break out of a vicious cycle in which low productivity exacerbates vulnerability to poverty In a series of micro case studies the project explores how cooperatives and institutions may help overcome these constraints This book will appeal to scholars and policy makers seeking instruments to promote increased agriculture productivity resolve food security issues and promote agribusiness by diversifying exports and increasing trade and competitiveness
