

The OSPF Hierarchy (continued)

Now consider the above example. Router G has been added, which belongs to Area 0. However, Router G also has a connection to the Internet, which is outside this Autonomous System.

This makes Router G an Autonomous System Border Router (ASBR). A router can become an ASBR in one of two ways:

- By connecting to a separate Autonomous System, such as the Internet
- By redistributing another routing protocol into the OSPF process.

ASBRs provide access to external networks. OSPF defines two “types” of external routes:

- Type 2 (E2) – Includes only the external cost to the destination network. External cost is the metric being advertised from outside the OSPF domain. This is the default type assigned to external routes.
- Type 1 (E1) – Includes both the external cost, and the internal cost to reach the ASBR, to determine the total metric to reach the destination network. Type 1 routes are always preferred over Type 2 routes to the same destination.

Thus, the four separate OSPF router types are as follows:

- Internal Routers – all router interfaces belong to only one Area.
- Area Border Routers (ABRs) – contains interfaces in at least two separate areas
- Backbone Routers – contain at least one interface in Area 0
- Autonomous System Border Routers (ASBRs) – contain a connection to a separate Autonomous System
