

The House on Mango Street

- 1 They always told us that one day we would move into a house, a real house, in a year. And our house would have running water and pipes that worked. And it would be like the houses on TV. And we'd have a basement and at least three washrooms. And the house would be white with trees around it, a great big yard and grass green like a field. And somebody held a lottery ticket and this was the house Mama dreamed up in the store.
- 2 But the house on Mango Street is not the way they told it at all. It's small and old. We were holding their breath. Bricks are crumbling in places, and the front corner is missing. There are only four little elms the city planted by the curb. Out back is a small garage between the two buildings on either side. There are stairs in our house, no front porch, no washroom. Everybody has to share a bedroom—Mama and Papa, Carlos and I.
- 3 Once when we were living on Loomis, a nun from my school passed by. She had a car and she had boarded up because it had been robbed two days before and the owner was still looking for it.
- 4 Where do you live? she asked.
- 5 There, I said pointing up to the third floor.
- 6 You live there?
