Brinton, Janet M. Goodwin, 2010-03-22 The second edition includes updates and insights on current research and pedagogical practice that have developed over the last decade This new edition of Teaching Pronunciation undoubtedly the gold standard for pronunciation methodology texts has been revised to reflect recent research into the sound system of North American English as well as new practices in pronunciation pedagogy Audio CDs with additional examples are now packaged with the book Teaching Pronunciation Marianne Celce-Murcia, Donna Brinton, Janet M. Goodwin, 1996-10-13 This course includes an overview of current theory and practice The paperback edition offers current and prospective teachers of English a comprehensive treatment of pronunciation pedagogy drawing on current theory and practice The text provides an overview of teaching issues from the perspective of different methodologies and second language acquisition research It has a thorough grounding in the sound system of North American English and contains insights into how this sound system intersects with listening morphology and spelling It also contains diagnostic tools assessment measures and suggestions for syllabus design Discussion questions encourage readers to draw on their personal language learning teaching experiences as they assimilate the contents of each chapter Follow up exercises guide teachers in developing a range of classroom activities within a communicative framework Asian English Language Classrooms Handoyo Puji Widodo, Alistair Wood, Deepti Gupta, 2017-06-14 The teaching of English in the Asian context is always challenging and dynamic because both teachers and learners have diverse linguistic and cultural backgrounds Equally important where English is not widely used outside the classroom English language classrooms are an authentic site of learner engagement For these reasons for all those concerned with contemporary English language teaching ELT in Asia Asian English Language Classrooms Where Theory and Practice Meet provides an account of theoretical orientations and practices in the teaching of English to multilingual speakers whose primary language is not English While covering the fundamental ELT areas e.g the teaching of language skills educational literature the use of technology in ELT the role of pragmatics in ELT social psychology of the language classroom and language classroom management with which every language teacher and teacher trainer must be concerned this volume showcases how particular orientations shape ELT practices We believe that practicing English teachers must have a heightened awareness of the theory behind their practice At the same time the theoretical stance must be firmly anchored in actual classrooms Containing newly commissioned chapters written by well regarded and emerging scholars this book will appeal not only to beginning teachers or teachers in training but also to established teachers around Asia where English is used as a lingua franca If you are a student teacher of English or an English teacher who would like to see what other progressive teachers like you are doing across Asia this is the book you have been looking for

Pronunciation John Levis, Murray Munro, 2026-02-02 Pronunciation is one of the core areas of linguistics language teaching and applied linguistics It is a salient aspect of spoken language and is of widespread interest to researchers because of the window it provides on questions involving spoken language and to teachers because of its relevance to the immediate concerns of classroom instruction This new four volume collection will gather the key historical articles and contemporary research in pronunciation to provide a one stop research resource for student and scholar

English Language Teaching in General Teacher Training Colleges and Development of Teachers' Competences in Teaching Language Systems Clovis Mbeudeu, 2020-08-07 Master s Thesis from the year 2019 in the subject Didactics for the subject English Grammar Style Working Technique grade 16 University of Yaound 1 Faculty of Education language English abstract This work set out to investigate English language teaching in General Teacher Training Colleges GTTCs with focus on strategies that can enhance trainees oral competences in the teaching of oral aspects of English during micro teaching and beyond The study was motivated by our observation that pronunciation is hardly taught in primary schools in the Francophone sub system of education in Cameroon It was hypothesized that the initial training received by French speaking student teachers in Government Bilingual Teacher Training GBTTC College Nlongkak does not equip them with adequate skills to teach English pronunciation activities effectively The data for this qualitative study was collected through lesson observation and document analysis The typical sampling method was applied in order to come up with the sample population This population consisted of trainers and trainees of GBTTC Yaounde Nlongkak The data collected were analysed following the content analysis method and against the back drop of the research questions that guided the study The following findings were obtained First the frequency of lessons on English pronunciation pedagogy was not the same in all classes Second schemes of work found in most logbooks studied pay little attention to the oral aspects of English Third methods and techniques that trainers used to teach English pronunciation pedagogy were not informed by current methodologies in pronunciation pedagogy Fourth it was revealed that most trainees taught very few lessons in the domain of oral language Fifth most of the trainees had difficulties preparing lessons on English pronunciation according to the exigencies of the Competence Based Approach Sixth all student teachers showed no mastery of the subject matter and the teaching of the oral domain of English Language during micro teaching These findings imply that the input received by trainees does not build their competences in teaching activities of the domain of oral language It is therefore suggested that initial training of teacher trainers at GTTC should be revisited School administrators policymakers trainers and trainees should reconsider the importance of teaching activities of the domain of oral language and the building of trainees and trainers competences
