

2.3 What are the most important extrajurisdictional issues regarding MiFID II in your jurisdiction?

Collaborative investment undertakings and their managers are exempt from MiFID II. However, some Irish Listed ManCos and APFMs follow the delegated model whereby the day-to-day asset management and monitoring and distribution of a fund is delegated to third party asset managers or distributors which are either authorised in the EU or provide MiFID individual portfolio management or advisory services under exempt and investment of assets is an subject to an regulatory regime outside the EU.

Irish ManCos and APFMs are impacted because the relevant service providers need information (such as product costs and charges, and target market indications) and either request to make or meet their obligations under MiFID II. Other service providers in Irish and EU's are directly affected by MiFID II as being requested to provide information as part of the provision of this support (eg fund administration/retail agents). Therefore, Irish ManCos and APFMs and MiFID firms are working together to ensure all the necessary MiFID II information is available so that the end client receives the MiFID II correct provisions.

2.4 In which areas are market participants still in need of more guidance/certainty over the rules?

As noted above, the inconsistency between the definition of a market based order the CPC and a MiFID II investment decision needs to be clarified and it is unclear as to whether consistent with adequate protection. As noted above the CBI is considering this issue and it is hoped guidance will be issued shortly.

MiFID II consulting provisions have had an indirect impact on non-EU portfolio management firms and investment advice firms who are no longer in MiFID II investment management firms, such as US sub-advisors.

The consulting requirements in article 34 of the MiFID II Delegated Regulation 2017/2017 means that a MiFID firm sub-delegating portfolio management must remain fully responsible for discharging all of its obligations under MiFID II and the end client must receive investor protection to the same extent as if a delegation had not taken place in circumstances where the MiFID firm has delegated portfolio management to a non-MiFID firm.

Further clarity is required on the extent of the application of the MiFID II investor protection requirements to non-EU service providers that sub-delegate. The CBI has not conducted any investigative position relating to the delegation by MiFID firms regulated by the CBI of portfolio management to such firms specifically in the context of whether there should be a prohibition of MiFID sub-delegating requirements.

SECTION 2 (b) – Non-EU countries

2.1 How well does your market understand MiFID II's requirements now that it's been implemented?

N/A

2.2 In which areas are market participants still in need of more guidance/certainty over the rules?

N/A

SECTION 3: Research

3.1 Please summarise the different approaches both buy and sell-side firms have taken in your jurisdiction with regard to MiFID II's rules on research.

The investment research rules require clients on the buy-side to determine whether they will pay for research directly or if they will pass the cost onto their adviser. This impacts the broker dealer and asset management industry. Sell-side firms must undertake costs, by separating execution costs from research costs, such that the buy-side can determine they are not being induced to trade.

In deciding how to price research the market practice is still being developed in Ireland.

3.2 If pricing research in accordance with MiFID II is not compatible with local law, how have firms approached this to ensure they are compliant?

N/A

3.3 What guidance have local regulators provided in order with this?

The CBI has said it will not be providing guidance on MiFID II. Firms are required to rely on the guidelines published by ESMA and in Q&A's tool.

SECTION 4: Trading/market structure

4.1 Which areas of trading/types of instruments have been most impacted by MiFID II in your jurisdiction, and how?

The pre- and post-trade transparency regime are applicable to non-equity instruments, including structured finance products, bonds, currency allowances and derivatives and will impact the trading of these products in Ireland.

Position limits for commodity derivatives will apply to investment funds and other portfolio managers on fund level rather than at the level of the manager. This will impact the funds industry (including UKI) where the investment manager is trading in commodities on behalf of a number of fund clients in a limited sector.

These trading changes under MiFID II apply at an EU level and Ireland will not apply any additional gold-plating requirements.

As noted above, the new requirements that apply to structured deposits under MiFID II impact the common regulatory regime of structured deposits in Ireland under domestic legislation.

Insurance Distribution Directive Pierpaolo Marano, Kyriaki Noussia, 2020-11-12 This open access volume of the AIDA Europe Research Series on Insurance Law and Regulation offers the first comprehensive legal and regulatory analysis of the Insurance Distribution Directive IDD The IDD came into force on 1 October 2018 and regulates the distribution of insurance products in the EU The book examines the main changes accompanying the IDD and analyses its impact on insurance distributors i e insurance intermediaries and insurance undertakings as well as the market Drawing on interrelations between the rules of the Directive and other fields that are relevant to the distribution of insurance products it explores various topics related to the interpretation of the IDD e g the harmonization achieved under it its role as a benchmark for national legislators and its interplay with other regulations and sciences while also providing an empirical analysis of the standardised pre contractual information document Accordingly the book offers a wealth of valuable insights for academics regulators practitioners and students who are interested in issues concerning insurance distribution

Distribution of Insurance-Based Investment Products Pierpaolo Marano, Ioannis Rokas, 2019-03-27 The book addresses a topic at the intersection of two heavily regulated sectors insurance and investment services Until recently scholars and professionals have approached insurance and investment services as two separate categories in the financial services sector and as being governed by separate regulatory frameworks In practice however the boundaries were and are blurred a reality that regulators have begun to recognize and address in their more recent regulatory texts The first part of the book approaches the new standards applicable to investment products based on insurance insurance based investment products IBIPs These rules are harmonized across the EU The rationale behind this new definition is provided together with a description of these products limitations The analysis addresses the new rules and explores the legal regime and relevant standards applicable to IBIPs The organizational rules concerning the design and distribution of IBIPs are also examined and the book highlights e g how these rules are inspired by the principles of conduct In closing the ADR systems are analysed in order to ascertain whether or not they can offer an effective tool for settling disputes over these products In turn the second part focuses on the liability for distribution of IBIPs which ranks as one of the most conspicuous and relatively new legal phenomena but at the same time represents an exceptionally important field of civil liability in today s world Liability is still regulated at the national level Thus the four largest life insurance markets in the EU are considered along with the largest emerging market for life insurance The chapters on national laws also consider whether and if so how the new harmonized rules on IBIPs are being combined with those already in force in the jurisdictions considered The goal is to determine whether the new rules are likely to change the doctrine and case law approach to these products or whether the European legislators choices have no real impact on the protection of clients

The Influence of the Insurance Distribution Directive (IDD) on the German Insurance Market Philipp Haye, 2018 This thesis analyzes the effect of the Insurance Distribution Directive IDD on the German insurance market This EU directive was initiated to increase customer protection by creating a framework that better aligns the interest and incentives of consumers insurers and insurance intermediaries Especially in Germany the IDD was viewed as an impulse to move the insurance intermediation market from the currently dominant compensation based remuneration system towards a fee for advice system However the analysis shows that the result of the German implementation of the IDD is rather soft and will not lead to a major strengthening of the fee for advice system A thorough literature review and an analysis on the effects of stronger regulations in other EU member states prior to the introduction of the IDD lead to the conclusion that a fee for advice system is generally not superior to the compensation based system and therefore the decision of the German legislator to not considerably restrict insurance intermediaries with respect to their remuneration seems reasonable from the author's point of view

Transparency in Insurance Regulation and Supervisory Law Pierpaolo Marano, Kyriaki Noussia, 2021-03-30 This volume focuses on transparency as the guiding principle for insurance regulation and supervisory law All chapters were written by experts in their respective fields who address transparency in a wide range of European and non European jurisdictions Each chapter reviews the transparency principles applicable in the jurisdiction discussed While the European jurisdictions reflect different facets of the principle as emerging from EU law on insurance the principle has developed quite differently in other jurisdictions

MiFID II in Relation to Other Investor Protection Regulation Veerle Colaert, 2019 The study of the interaction between different pieces of EU financial legislation becomes ever more important and difficult In this contribution the author explores the relationship between MiFID II and other recent EU legislation aiming at investor protection such as the Insurance Distribution Directive the PRIIPs Regulation and the UCITS Directive The analysis reveals numerous inconsistencies and interpretation difficulties The author argues that while some of the shortcomings are inherent to the EU piecemeal approach other problems should and could have been avoided by adopting a holistic approach of financial regulation and supervision Markets in Financial Instruments Directive II Implementation ,2016 Markets in Financial Instruments Directive II MiFID II takes effect on 3 January 2018 and this consultation paper forms part of the Financial Conduct Authority FCA process to make the necessary changes to the FCA Handbook to implement it As much of MiFID II is in directly applicable obligations the FCA and firms need to fulfil their legal responsibilities from the point they come into force The consultation paper covers a range of issues including position limits and reporting for commodity derivatives systems and controls requirements for firms providing MiFID investment services and client asset protections Extracted from FCA Press Release dated 29 July 2016 Executive's Guide to Solvency II David Buckham,Jason

European Insurance Law within the Digital Age Cristina Poncibò, Piotr Tereskiewicz, 2025-10-27 This edited volume examines how recent technological innovations are transforming European insurance law focusing on critical issues such as transparency information duties fairness and the regulation of insurance contracts for both professional and private policyholders While new business models like digital platforms and robo advisory services are rapidly emerging European law has yet to provide a sufficiently tailored regulatory response The current sectoral framework notably Directive EU 2016 97 on insurance distribution IDD offers a general principle based approach but lacks the specificity needed to effectively address innovative digital insurance distribution models In parallel broader regulatory initiatives such as the EU Artificial Intelligence Act EU AI Act and the Digital Services Act DSA are poised to reshape the digital insurance ecosystem The EU AI Act introduces horizontal rules governing AI systems including those used in automated underwriting risk profiling and robo advisory services thereby directly affecting the design and accountability of algorithmic tools in insurance distribution especially those deemed high risk The DSA imposes new responsibilities on digital platforms with potential implications for InsurTech firms acting as intermediaries or aggregators Additionally there is ongoing uncertainty as to whether existing consumer protection instrument such as the Unfair Contract Terms Directive 93 13 EEC the Unfair Commercial Practices Directive 2005 29 EC and the Omnibus Directive 2019 2161 EC are sufficient to address the novel risks and challenges posed by digital insurance services Meanwhile regulatory guidance from supervisory bodies such as EIOPA and national authorities is increasingly addressing InsurTech related legal questions in a more targeted manner By providing a normative and comparative legal analysis this volume addresses a significant gap in current scholarship It calls on legal scholars and insurance experts to reassess the role of technology in shaping EU insurance law and to reflect on whether the regulatory principle of technological neutrality remains viable Ultimately the book argues for an integrated regulatory approach that aligns socio technical governance with the specific demands of insurance law ensuring effective consumer protection in an increasingly digital landscape
