Language Policy in Ethiopia Mekonnen Alemu Gebre Yohannes, 2021-02-18 This book examines the interplay and tensions between hegemonic and counter hegemonic language policy and processes in Tigray a regional state of Ethiopia in the period of pre and post 1991 Viewing language use and language policy as dynamic social and ideological processes the book presents Ethiopia as an example of language policy creation and implementation over time in a highly volatile political context The case of Ethiopia is unique in that different language policies and practices were put in place as the country's leaders changed through political takeovers. Declared language policies were not always implemented and those implemented were often protested. The book starts with an overview and review of language policy and planning followed by a chapter on the history of such planning in Ethiopia. It then presents the methodology used for the study and examines the appropriation of hegemonic LPP patterns of resistance schools and public sites as centers of resistance and the emergence and development of specific patterns of language use in different regions of the country. The book ends with recommendations for future research and draws the overall conclusion that since LPP is a dynamic and multilayered contextual process, official or de facto language policy is often undermined by overt or covert unofficial language policies, ideologies, mechanisms, and agents that result in different patterns of language use.

Specifically, it is an analysis of classroom discourse in mathematics and science lessons conducted in English and to determine the extent to which language of instruction supports or hinders participation in these verbal exchanges. Language attitudes were also tested to elucidate whether Kenyans support the introduction of English as the medium of teaching in primary school and thereby establishing the acceptability of the language policy. The observation and recording of class lessons covered 26 Standard Four English Science and Mathematics lessons and 8 Standard Eight Science and Mathematics classes.
