Matcha Tea and Its Acute Effects on Postprandial Blood Glucose Roni Romash, 2018. Many natural interventions have been effective at lowering postprandial glucose concentrations. PPG in research trials and theoretically should have favorable effects on the prevention and management of T2DM. Natural interventions include vinegar, nuts, and exercise. Green tea has been demonstrated to also possess antiglycemic effects. Thus, green tea and its most abundant catechin, EGCG, are being consumed for its potential health benefits in cancer prevention and in its inhibitory effects on alpha-amylase. Many studies have found EGCG to inhibit alpha-amylase, an enzyme needed in the breakdown of carbohydrates (CHO). Other studies have looked at EGCG and its potential for lowering PPG concentrations due to its inhibitory effects on alpha-amylase in both mice and humans. Yet there is no research on Matcha tea.

specifically Matcha tea is green tea in powder form hence it is consumed in its entirety unlike traditional teas which are steeped in bags The purpose of this study was to determine whether Macha tea impacts PPG concentrations in healthy adults Twelve subjects completed this randomized controlled single blinded crossover study On three separate occasions the twelve subjects consumed a bagel and jam with either water Lipton green tea or Macha tea Fasting blood glucose was taken upon their arrival Once the tea or water and bagel with jam were consumed PPG concentrations were measured every 30 minutes until 120 minutes were reached Results showed no statistically significant effects on PPG concentrations in either test groups p 960 However this study did not measure EGCG levels in the tea provided Therefore further research should be done with known EGCG amounts to see its effects on PPG concentrations to fully rule out its potential
