The Essence of Expatriation for United States Employees and Spouses Living in the Netherlands, Belgium and France Jean Rowe McFarland,1995 Work and Welfare Donald Stabile,1996-02-06 This interesting work presents a unique perspective on the history of economic thought by showing that classical economists from Adam Smith to Alfred Marshall had sympathy for workers for example the theory of the subsistence wage echoed the theological call for a just wage that existed in the middle ages It also describes how these thinkers promoted either a set of social obligations or a form of social insurance to assist workers These economic thinkers of the past argued that a subsistence standard of living was important to maintain and improve workers efficiency and to raise healthy families The notion that these writers had an undeveloped theory of social costs that they applied to labor should appeal to economists and others concerned with the plight of workers as the modern economy restructures itself Countering Discrimination in Social Work Bogdan Lesnik,1998 Discrimination Isn t there enough talk about discrimination Yes indeed That is why we have to begin countering discrimination We need strategies that will make it inoperative or at least limit its scope But first we need to think how discrimination works and identify it where it works It concerns far more than mere procedural hitches for which a few legal provisions will do Countering Discrimination Volume 1998 of International Perspectives in Social Work yearbook brings papers that analyse mechanisms of social discrimination in a variety of such locations and bring proposals for counter strategies This is essential in social work if causes rather than manifestations of the problems it is concerned with are to be addressed But it is also essential that everybody who opposes discrimination recognise its subtle and dispersed ways of operation in the human services regardless of their own basic field of work In this respect the book will be useful to a very wide audience The Saturday Evening Post ,1917 Hygeia ,1949 Nature Sir Norman Lockyer,1915
