

Geometric Constructions

In this lesson, you learned how a compass and straightedge are used to create constructions related to circles. In this assignment, you will use those tools to complete those constructions on your own.

As you complete the assignment, keep this question in mind:

How do you perform constructions related to circles?

Directions

Complete each of the following constructions, reading the directions carefully as you go. Be sure to show all work and insert an image of each construction. If you are unable to take and insert screenshots of the constructions, print this activity sheet and create them by hand using a compass and straightedge.

Your teacher will give you further directions about how to submit your work. You may be asked to upload the document, e-mail it to your teacher, or print it and hand in a hard copy.

Now, let's get started!

Step 1: Construct a circle through three points not on a line.

- a) Construct a circle through three points not on a line using the construction tool. Insert a screenshot of the construction here. Alternatively, construct a circle through three points not on a line by hand using a compass and straightedge. Leave all circle and arc markings. (10 points)

The screenshot shows a software window titled "Constructing a Circle through Three Points Not on a Line". The window contains a text box with the instruction: "Construct a circle through points X, Y, and Z." Below the text is a large workspace where three points, X, Y, and Z, are marked. A circle has been constructed passing through all three points. The construction process is shown with several overlapping circles and lines, including the perpendicular bisectors of the segments XY and YZ, which intersect at the center of the final circle. A small inset image shows a hand-drawn compass and straightedge. At the bottom of the workspace, there is an "Undo" button. Below the workspace, there are two navigation buttons: "Intro" and "Final". The bottom of the screenshot shows a Windows taskbar with various application icons.
