The area is quite broad, covering field force and workforce, automation, network, and asset planning, and also aspects of customer relationship management, human resources systems, and enterprise resource planning. Furthermore, it addresses the key challenge of how all these technologies and systems are integrated into a cohesive blueprint. In this book, Christos Voudouris and his group, together with experts from industry and academia, present the latest innovations and technologies used to manage the operations of a service company. The viewpoints presented are based on the BT experience and on associated research and development in collaborating universities and partner companies. The focus is on real-world challenges and how technologies can be used to overcome practical problems in a don't just survive, thrive approach. The unique combination of technologies, experiences, and systems, looked at from the different perspectives of service providers and users, and combined with advice on successful benefit realisation and agile delivery of solutions, makes this an indispensable read for managers and system architects in the service industry.

Service, Satisfaction and Climate: Perspectives on Management in English Language Teaching John Walker,2010-10-06 Service Satisfaction and Climate Perspectives on Management in English Language Teaching presents the results of research carried out in New Zealand to demonstrate the ways ELT can be conceptualized in terms of service and climate Although ESL is a major worldwide service industry employing large numbers of professionals and serving millions of clients it is an under researched field and one that is under represented in the management business literature This omission is particularly noticeable given that ELT has its own particular themes problems and issues For instance ELT is an educational service yet exists within a commercial context Its clients are from different cultural and linguistic backgrounds In many ELT contexts the cultural and linguistic backgrounds of the service providers are different from those of the clients Thus the service provision has a strong cross cultural dimension Yet the ELT sector is largely missing from the educational and the management literature This book seeks to fill the gap through discussion of ELT as a service issues surrounding ELT teachers as service providers the work of ELT managers client expectations and perceptions of ELT service comparison of staff estimates and client ratings of service quality and considerations of service milieu and climate in ELT centers
