

Sickle Cell Anemia

Page 1

1. Disease Etiology

When Mary's paternal grandmother, Earlene, is informed that she has a 7-year-old granddaughter, she immediately agrees to care for Mary. Earlene is a waitress and lives alone in a middle-class neighborhood in a small town about 85 miles from where Mary currently lives. Before placing Mary in a new home, CPS evaluates Earlene's physical, financial, and psychological ability to care for Mary. Earlene is not familiar with SCA. A nurse from CPS meets with her to discuss Mary's health condition. Earlene says to the nurse, "I have heard of sickle cell anemia, and I know it can be very bad, but I don't know exactly what it is."

2. 1.ID: 6975182549

What is the best response by the nurse to Earlene's statement?

A. "I have some written material that will explain all about the disease."

Providing the grandmother with written material is indicated, but the nurse should first provide another response to Earlene's statement.

B. "It is a disease of the blood that requires taking medication every day."

There is no daily medication that will prevent a sickle cell crisis or cure SCA.

C. "Mary will probably have episodes of severe joint pain and will need to be hospitalized."

This response does not provide the initial information that Earlene needs to best understand the disease.

D. "Red blood cells become 'C' shaped, stiff, and sticky, which blocks the blood vessels." Correct

Sickle cell anemia is a disorder of the red blood cells characterized by abnormally shaped red cells that block and damage blood vessels leading to oxygen deprivation, pain, anemia, serious infections, and damage to vital organs.

Correct

Awarded 1.0 points out of 1.0 possible points.

3. Earlene listens attentively to the nurse discuss Mary's condition and what she must do to care for her. After reviewing the needed care, the nurse asks the grandmother if she has any other questions. Earlene asks, "How did Mary get this awful disease?"

4. 2.ID: 6975182547

How should the nurse respond?

Current Developments in Anthropological Genetics James H. Mielke,Michael Crawford,1980 While the previous two volumes in this series were based upon methodol ogy theory and the relationship between ecology and population structure this book can be viewed as an in depth case study The population genetics of a multitude of diverse groups geographically distributed throughout the world was examined in the first two volumes In contrast this volume focuses upon a single ethnic group the Black Caribs Garifuna of Central America and St Vincent Island and explores the interrelationships among the ethnohistory sociocultural characteristics demography morphology and genetic structure of the group This volume offers a broad and intensive treatment of the Black Caribs and their interactions with surrounding populations My interest in the genetics of the Black Caribs was sparked by an accidental meeting in Amsterdam Holland in March 1975 A conversation with Nancie Gonzalez at the Applied Anthropology Meetings revealed the truth is stranger than fiction history of the Black Carib peoples of the Caribbean This was a popUlation with a small sized founding group and a unique biological success story Nancie Gonzalez was particularly interested in estimating the Carib Indian admixture in the contemporary Garifuna popUlation Given my previous experi ence in estimating Spanish and African admixture in the Tlaxcaltecan population whose gene pool consisted predominantly of Indian alleles a group that appeared to be primarily African with some Indian admixture was of great interest Aside from the ethnohistorical interest I believe that such a population may add considerably to our understanding of the inheritance of complex morphological traits
