

Chapter 14

Noun Clauses

CHAPTER SUMMARY

OBJECTIVE: The objective of this chapter is to enable students to easily comprehend and use noun clauses. The successful use of noun clauses allows students to engage in natural conversation, in which they can discuss how to get and give information. In addition, they will gain a working knowledge of reported speech, which they can use to relate past conversations and share information gained indirectly.

APPROACH: The first part of the chapter is organized around the three types of noun clauses: those introduced by (1) question words, (2) if / whether, and (3) that. In the first few sections, noun clauses are presented as transformations of information questions and yes / no questions.

In the second part of the chapter, students also learn to report the words of another person. This is useful in situations ranging from informal conversation to formal academic writing.

TERMINOLOGY: Other terms for some types of noun clauses are “nominal clause,” “wh-clause,” “that-clause,” and “included, embedded, or indirect questions.” In this text, subordinating conjunctions (e.g., who, what, if, that) are simply called “words that introduce noun clauses.” Quoted speech is also called “direct speech” or “direct discourse.” Reported speech is also called “indirect speech” or “indirect discourse.”

□ EXERCISE 1. Warm-up. Page 370

Time: 5 minutes

After students have marked their answers, you might want to have them find the subject, verb, and object in each item.

CHART 14-1. Noun Clauses: Introduction.

Time: 10–15 minutes

The principal problem learners have with noun clauses is correct word order. Students may use question word order (i.e., inverted subject and verb) in noun clauses introduced by a question word.

incorrect: I wanted to know why did Ann leave early.

Similarly, students may use noun clause word order in questions:

Another difficulty stems from tense changes in noun clauses. For example, the spoken question, Why is Tom absent? sometimes changes tense if the reporting verb is past: The teacher wanted to know why Tom was absent.

The formal sequence of tenses in noun clauses is presented in Chart 14-10. Until that point in the chapter (i.e., until all three forms of noun clauses have been introduced and practiced), no introductory verbs are past tense if the student is required to supply the noun clause verb. In this way, students can avoid the complicated problem of changing noun clause verbs to past forms. You should remember to use only present introductory verbs such as I don't know when making up your own examples or quizzes.

- Start by putting a simple sentence on the board featuring an object noun that can easily be replaced by a noun clause. For example:
I love my home.
- Explain that my home can be replaced with a noun clause.
- Ask students to tell you what the elements of any clause are, and put these on the board. For example:
a clause has a subject and a verb
- Ask students to come up with a way to replace my home with a noun clause. For example:
my home = where I live
- Ask students to label the parts of the above clause. For example:
question word + subject + verb
my home = where I live
- Tell students that just as nouns can be subjects or objects, noun clauses, which take the place of nouns, can replace either a subject or an object.
- Ask students to take turns reading aloud the example sentences (a)–(f) from the chart.
- Go through the notes that accompany each example sentence and discuss these with students.
