

Chapter 25: Modern Genetics

A. CHEMICAL BASIS FOR GENETICS. It wasn't until modern times that scientists began to understand the chemical makeup of genes and chromosomes. In the 1940's and 1950's experiments showed that genes, the basic units of heredity, are made up of the chemical compound DNA (deoxyribonucleic acid). DNA is a large complex molecule found in high concentrations in the nucleus of the cell. It is responsible for passing genetic information from generation to generation. DNA also controls the manufacture of enzymes. Enzymes control cellular activity.

REVIEW QUESTIONS

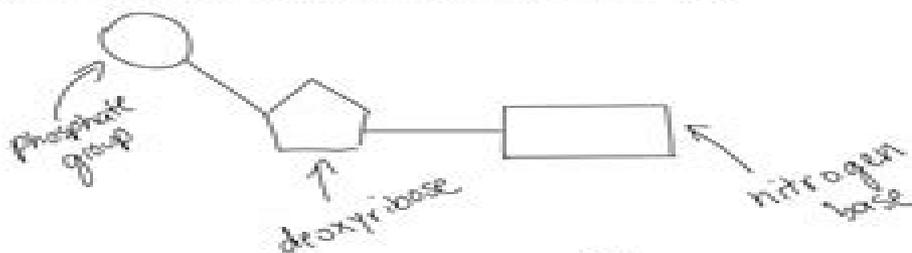

1. Genes are composed of a chemical compound called DNA (deoxyribonucleic acid)
2. Name two processes for which DNA is responsible. Passing genetic information from generation to generation and it controls the manufacture of enzymes

B. NUCLEOTIDES. The DNA molecule is made up of a long chain of repeating nucleotide units. Nucleotides contain nitrogenous bases, a sugar, and a phosphate group. The four different nitrogenous bases in DNA nucleotides are adenine, guanine, cytosine, and thymine. The sugar in DNA is deoxyribose, a 5-carbon sugar. The phosphate group contains phosphorus and oxygen. Figure 25-1 is a model (representation) of a typical DNA nucleotide.

REVIEW QUESTIONS

1. The DNA molecule is a long chain of units known as nucleotides
2. The four different nitrogenous bases in DNA nucleotides are adenine, guanine, cytosine, and thymine
3. In the space below draw and label a DNA nucleotide.

Developmental Plasticity and Evolution Mary Jane West-Eberhard,2003-03-13 The first comprehensive synthesis on development and evolution it applies to all aspects of development at all levels of organization and in all organisms taking advantage of modern findings on behavior genetics endocrinology molecular biology evolutionary theory and phylogenetics to show the connections between developmental mechanisms and evolutionary change This book solves key problems that have impeded a definitive synthesis in the past It uses new concepts and specific examples to show how to relate environmentally sensitive development to the genetic theory of adaptive evolution and to explain major patterns of change In this book development includes not only embryology and the ontogeny of morphology sometimes portrayed inadequately as governed by regulatory genes but also behavioral development and physiological adaptation where plasticity is mediated by genetically complex mechanisms like hormones and learning The book shows how the universal qualities of phenotypes modular organization and plasticity facilitate both integration and change Here you will learn why it is wrong to describe organisms as genetically programmed why environmental induction is likely to be more important in evolution than random mutation and why it is crucial to consider both selection and developmental mechanism in explanations of adaptive evolution This book satisfies the need for a truly general book on development plasticity and evolution that applies to living organisms in all of their life stages and environments Using an immense compendium of examples on many kinds of organisms from viruses and bacteria to higher plants and animals it shows how the phenotype is reorganized during evolution to produce novelties and how alternative phenotypes occupy a pivotal role as a phase of evolution that fosters diversification and speeds change The arguments of this book call for a new view of the major themes of evolutionary biology as shown in chapters on gradualism homology environmental induction speciation radiation macroevolution punctuation and the maintenance of sex No other treatment of development and evolution since Darwin s offers such a comprehensive and critical discussion of the relevant issues Developmental Plasticity and Evolution is designed for biologists interested in the development and evolution of behavior life history patterns ecology physiology morphology and speciation It will also appeal to evolutionary paleontologists anthropologists psychologists and teachers of general biology
