

Chapter 5 End-chapter essay questions solutions

On top of the selected homework questions, you can use the remaining questions as an extra study resource to help you learn.

1 Marketing is often portrayed as a creative enterprise. Why would a marketing executive need to have an understanding of the capital budgeting process and techniques such as net present value and internal rate of return? (LO 5.1)

- Capital budgeting refers to the investment decision process carried out by a firm.
- Within the constraints of the objectives and policies, management will consider a range of investment opportunities, that is, projects that the firm will consider proceeding with as part of its business operations.
- Projects need to maximise shareholder value, so quantitative measures, such as NPV and IRR, can be used to evaluate project opportunities and choices.
- Marketing campaigns are simply another type of project that the firm will analyse using these techniques. As such, the marketing executive may need to explain how the proposed campaign will create market value. Also, if challenged about the potential for the marketing campaign to create value, the marketing executive will need to understand the arguments (by being familiar with capital budgeting techniques).

2 Disney Corporation is considering the re-release of its classic film library. The project will involve an investment of $78 000 000 and will produce a positive cash flow of $25 000 000 in the first year. The cash flows will increase by 10 per cent each year thereafter for another five years (i.e. the project runs for six years). At that stage the project will cease. The company expects a rate of return of 17 per cent on this type of project. (LO 5.1)

a. Calculate the NPV and the IRR.

Examination JAMA Care at the Close of Life is based on a widely successful series of articles appearing over the course of the last ten years in JAMA the world s most widely read medical journal The series is directed by Stephen McPhee a leading authoriity of end of life care and the chief editor of our market leading Current Medical Diagnosis and Treatment text The articles in the series cover fundamental topics and challenges in caring for patients who have been given a terminal diagnosis Featuring a strong focus on evidence based medicine and organized by clinical cases the articles are widely read by faculty medical students and clinicians who frankly have not been given a solid educational experience on this very important medical issue The book will be physically modeled after The Rational Clinical Examination in a full color format that highlights the clinical cases It will be well suited for use as an required or recommended textbook for medical PA and NO students and as a clinical reference text for trainees and practicing physicians and nurses Key Selling Features Based on highy regarded content from the world s most widely read medical journal All content is completely updated and extensive new never before published content has been added Case based and evidence based so its a perfect fit for the way medical students and residents like to learn Focuses on practical real world issues for primary care physicians and avoids esoteric issues of interest only to specialists in palliative care Full color format modeled after the highly regarded Rational Clinical Examination Includes multimedia materials available on line Power Point slides for teaching and video interviews with patients in end of life care so that faculty and students get supplemental resources for learning the art and science of care at the end of life Evidence based guidance from the world s leading medical journal on a critical topic that has been neglected in medical education and training until recently Author Profile JAMA is the world s most widely read medical journal and has a reputation for excellence in evidence based medicine Stephen McPhee has high visibility on account of his editorship of CMDT and for his driving role in enhancing end of life care in medical education and training programs He is Professor of
