Impact of Diet on Learning, Memory and Cognition Amy Claire Reichelt, Margaret J. Morris, R. Fred Westbrook, 2017-08-22 Changes in food composition and availability have contributed to the dramatic increase in obesity over the past 30 40 years in developed and increasingly in developing countries The modern diet now contains many foods that are rich in saturated fat and refined sugar People who eat excessive amounts of this diet are not only likely to become overweight even obese develop metabolic and cardiovascular diseases some forms of cancer but also undergo a more rapid rate of normal age related cognitive decline and more rapid progression of neurological diseases such as dementia A central problem is why people persist in consuming this diet in spite of its adverse health effects and when alternative food choices are available As high fat high sugar foods are inherently rewarding eating for pleasure like taking psychoactive drugs can modulate reward neurocircuitry causing changes in responsiveness to reward predicting stimuli and incentive motivation Indeed the excessive ingestion in modern societies and the resulting obesity epidemic may be viewed as a form of food addiction Thus a diet high in palatable foods is proposed to impact upon reward systems in the brain modulating appetitive learning and altering reward thresholds Impairments in other forms of cognition have been associated with obesity and these have a rapid onset The hippocampus appears to be particularly vulnerable to the detrimental effects of high fat and high sugar diets Recent research has shown that as little as one week of exposure to a high fat high sugar diet leads to impairments in place but not object recognition memory in the rat Excess sugar alone had similar effects and the detrimental effects of diet consumption was linked to increased inflammatory markers in the hippocampus a critical region involved in memory Furthermore obesity related inflammatory changes have also been described in the human brain that may lead to memory impairments These memory deficits may contribute to pathological eating behaviour through changes in the amount consumed and timing of eating The aim of this eBook is to present up to date information about the impact of diet and diet induced obesity on reward driven learning memory and cognition encompassing both animal and human literature and also potential therapeutic targets to attenuate such deficits

IMMUNOINFORMATICS IN THE AGE OF AI: MACHINE LEARNING METHODS FOR IMMUNE SYSTEM MODELING Dr. Calvin Ronchen Wei, 2024-11-28 Immunoinformatics an interdisciplinary field at the nexus of immunology bioinformatics and computational science has been profoundly transformed by the advent of artificial intelligence AI and machine learning ML technologies As the immune system is an intricate and dynamic network responsible for protecting organisms from pathogens its study presents vast complexities requiring sophisticated computational tools The integration of ML has enabled significant strides in understanding immune responses predicting immune epitopes designing vaccines and modeling interactions between pathogens and the host immune system ML algorithms particularly those utilizing deep learning frameworks have shown remarkable capabilities in analyzing vast genomic proteomic and transcriptomic datasets revealing patterns and insights that were previously beyond human reach These advancements are particularly crucial in the current era where rapid responses to emerging diseases and pandemics necessitate unprecedented speed and precision in immune system research AI powered tools have revolutionized vaccine development by predicting antigenic determinants with high accuracy thereby reducing reliance on traditional trial and error methods This approach has accelerated the development of mRNA vaccines which played a critical role during the COVID 19 pandemic Furthermore ML techniques like support vector machines neural networks and ensemble learning have been employed to simulate immune system dynamics enabling researchers to forecast immune responses to various interventions These models are instrumental in identifying biomarkers for autoimmune diseases allergies and cancer immunotherapy paving the way for personalized medicine Moreover the incorporation of natural language processing in immunoinformatics has facilitated the curation and synthesis of vast biomedical literature providing researchers with actionable insights into immune related mechanisms and therapies However the application of ML in immunoinformatics is not without challenges Issues such as data heterogeneity interpretability of ML models and the need for high quality annotated datasets remain significant barriers Ethical considerations including data privacy and the equitable distribution of AI enabled solutions are also critical concerns Addressing these challenges requires collaborative efforts between immunologists data scientists and ethicists ensuring that advancements in AI are harnessed responsibly and inclusively
