Factors Determining the Success of SMEs in Malaysia. A Qualitative Study Yusuf Balarabe Abdullahi,2021-03-19 Doctoral Thesis Dissertation from the year 2018 in the subject Business economics Business Management Corporate Governance grade 3 8 Limkokwing University of Creative Technology language English abstract This report will help identify gaps that this study is aiming to bridge which will also help guide the entire paper It is becoming increasingly difficult to overlook the importance of the small and medium enterprise SME sector in the economic and social development of a country In view of their identified importance this study aims to develop a better understanding of the factors that influence success and performance in small and medium enterprises in Malaysia as perceived by owners and or managers The research framework which was derived from a systematic literature review was carefully analyzed observed and investigated using a two 2 stage design which incorporated both quantitative and qualitative approaches The justification behind the two 2 stage methodology was mainly to avoid common method bias and furthermore seek to clarify findings arising from the survey by providing individual insights Approaches were adopted in succession with the findings from the quantitative phase which in turn informs the qualitative phase Small and medium enterprises SMEs have an important role to play in the development of a country A strong SME sector contributes highly to the economy contributing to the gross domestic product by reducing the level of unemployment reduction in poverty levels and promotion of entrepreneurship activity Therefore the success of this sector determines economic status of the economy of Malaysia which is dependent on a number of factors

Extreme poverty among Venezuelan refugees in Colombia? Exploring media perspectives Alfredo Lopez,2020-06-24 Master s Thesis from the year 2020 in the subject Sociology Individual Groups Society grade B Massey University New Zealand course Master of International Development language English abstract This research report focuses on exploring how the media describes the level of poverty among Venezuelan refugees in Colombia Very little research has been conducted on the poverty experienced by Venezuelan refugees in Colombia Thus the purpose of this research is to explore how the media newspapers describe the level of poverty and living conditions of Venezuelan refugees in Colombia This study also aims to explore what the media report about the support given by Colombia to Venezuelan refugees Furthermore the research report investigates how the media describe the socio economic situation of the Venezuelan refugees in Colombia and how poverty impacts their living conditions The media analysed in this research report suggest that according to the media newly arrived Venezuelan refugees in Colombia face extreme poverty But the media also suggest that over time these people can improve their living conditions However in the process of adaptation in Colombia these refugees face the economic poverty of Colombia unemployment discrimination health problems and violence experienced by Colombia for 60 years The media describe these issues as factors that impact the living conditions of these people in Colombia

New requirements on ESG reporting in Europe Malte Kanngießer,2024-10-02 Research Paper undergraduate from the year 2024 in the subject Business economics Accounting and Taxes grade 1 3 University of Applied Sciences Essen BWL II course Value Based Controlling and International Accounting language English abstract Environmental Social and Governance ESG considerations are increasingly crucial in the corporate world driven by stakeholder demands for transparency and accountability Europe is leading this shift with the Corporate Sustainability Reporting Directive CSRD which mandates comprehensive ESG disclosures This directive marks a transition from voluntary initiatives to mandatory compliance requiring companies to integrate sustainability into their core strategies and operations This study explores the current status of ESG reporting requirements in Europe and their potential impact on corporate reporting Using a mixed method approach the research combines qualitative and quantitative analysis of official documents academic studies and industry reports The evolution of ESG reporting in Europe began with Directive 2013/34/EU which mandated non financial disclosures but had limited success The CSRD introduced by Directive EU 2022/2464 significantly expands the scope of companies required to report aiming for nearly 75% of EU companies to comply This expansion aligns with the European Green Deal's vision of making Europe the first climate neutral continent The CSRD mandates sustainability information in official company reports or online ensuring transparency and accountability through Double Materiality The CSRD impacts both internal and external reporting Internally companies must enhance data collection and analysis involving management and supervisory bodies in sustainability issues This requirement extends to the entire value chain increasing administrative burdens and costs Externally transparent ESG reporting can enhance stakeholder trust attract investments and improve reputation though non compliance risks reputational damage and financial penalties Despite challenges effective ESG reporting under the CSRD offers significant benefits including improved stakeholder relations access to capital and opportunities for innovation and growth The directive's alignment with international standards like the IFRS Sustainability standards ensures consistent and credible reporting
