

Billenium Summary

Summary & Analysis of Billenium by J.G. Ballard

'Billenium' is a science fiction short story by J.G. Ballard. Set in an overcrowded future city, the story explores themes of population growth, limited living space, and the longing for personal privacy. The narrative follows two main characters, Ward and Rossiter, as they navigate their cramped living conditions and search for a solution to their overcrowded lives.

The story opens by describing the living conditions of an individual named Ward. He lives in a narrow cubicle built into a staircase in an old rooming house. The house is noisy, with over a hundred people living on the top floors and constant foot traffic on the stairs. Ward used to live in a crowded room on a busy street before moving to the staircase cubicle for some privacy. Despite the privacy, Ward's cubicle has its drawbacks. It is small, slightly larger than the maximum allowable size for one person. Ward can fit a bed and a small chair in the cubicle. His friends often visit him, and they have to take turns sitting on the bed due to the limited space. The story also discusses the manipulation of living space by landlords. They sometimes deceive tenants by altering the measurements or temporarily reducing the size of the cubicles during inspections.

Ward later admits that his cubicle is slightly tilted, but he defends the available space. They talk about the housing situation in the city, where old buildings have been converted into cubicles, and the streets are congested with pedestrians. The housing department is rumored to be considering reducing the allocation of living space even further. Rossiter mentions the increasing population, with thirty million people now living in the city, and the possibility of further reductions in living space. Ward doubts the feasibility of such a reevaluation, considering the logistical challenges and the small living spaces it would create. Rossiter recalls how people initially resisted the reduction from five to four square meters, but it eventually became accepted.

Rossiter expresses his dissatisfaction with the food bar they plan to visit, and they consider going elsewhere, knowing they will face a similar crowd. Ward reflects on his routine and his disengagement from the worsening conditions in the city. They navigate through the crowded streets, discussing population estimates, which are classified information. They mention the challenges of sustaining agricultural production and the concentration of people in urban
