MULTIPLE CHOICE QUESTIONS

Questions 1-2 refer to the excerpt below.

"To suppress these kinds of warlike efforts, singly and alone, would prove a vast distraction. We can make no progress in that way. We must concentrate our own energies upon the Indians. We must have the war with them. Many nations make war on others. We must have our first war with our own. This will give us strength. If our warriors are united they can defend the country and drive these tribes out. If we do this, we are safe. . . .
"And you of the different nations of the north, and you of the west, may place yourselves under our protection, and we will protect you. We certainly desire the alliance and friendship of you all. . . ."
