Virtual Paleobiology - Advances in X-Ray Computed Microtomography and 3D Visualization of Fossils Stergios D. Zarkogiannis, Shinya Iwasaki, Elizabeth Clark, Pauline Guenser, 2024-02-23 Emerging technologies are opening new avenues for the study of past and present ecosystems Computer aided visualization and analysis of fossil specimens through X ray tomography has revolutionized the study of organisms X ray tomography or X ray computed tomography is a characterization technique for generating 3D information from 2 dimensional X ray image slices X ray imaging is based on the differential absorption or scattering of an X ray source to reveal internal attributes of biological specimens High resolution tomography can retrieve compositional and structural information of small objects or the macrostructure of larger objects non destructively allowing fossils to be characterized in three dimensions and in unprecedented detail This has enabled paleontologists to gain important insights into the anatomy development and preservation of specimens The resulting digital 3D reconstructions can be used in functional analyses to test hypotheses regarding the paleobiology of extinct organisms that could transform our understanding of long studied fossil groups and the narratives of organismal and ecological evolution Furthermore this proliferation of digital datasets should make the widespread sharing and dissemination of 3D data possible providing access to rare fossil material worldwide Mastering 3D Animation, 2004 CD ROM contains models animations textures and color images to help you work your way through the book Page xii

CARS 2000 Heinz U. Lemke, 2000 Hardbound Over the centuries the macroscopic view of the human being has been enhanced with an anatomical and functional degree of detail such that no physician can no longer memorise this wealth of information With modern imaging tools the information which may be obtained from a particular patient will move further from the macroscopic to the microscopic detail This information will neither be imprinted on film or paper nor stored in the PC but will rather reside on the network Intelligent processing and management of this imaging information contributes to new possibilities for computer assisted diagnosis and therapy CARS 2000 focuses on these computer and communication tools Radiologists surgeons computer scientists and engineers from over 40 countries are actively supporting these aims of CARS This demonstrates that advancing patient care is best served by international and interdisciplinary cooperation and this publicatio

Interactive Multiple-representation Editing of Physically-based 3D Animation Wayne Alfred Christopher,1994 Abstract In recent years much work has been done on realistic animation It is now possible to simulate and animate a variety of different types of objects and physical effects However little attention has been paid to the problem of interactively creating and editing realistic animated scenes Developing and modifying such scenes is still a batch oriented process that depends on trial and error Animation editing for non realistic scenes has also undergone rapid development Presentation graphics systems keyframe based editors and virtual reality based interactive tools for a variety of purposes have been designed However physical realism is missing from these systems The principal result of this dissertation is the design and implementation of the Asgard animation system an editor for creating physically based 3D animation Asgard provides the user with a flexible multiple representation editing interface which allows both direct manipulation graphical definition and modification of the scene and textual editing of a formal description of the objects forces and other parameters of the animation Multiple instances of each type of view can be created all of which are synchronized Such an interface allows the user to utilize the most convenient and effective tools for each task in the definition of the scene Asgard also includes a differential equation solution technique that is adapted to the problem of physically based animation which uses an event driven scheduling algorithm to take maximum advantage of the differing time varying properties of different components in the scene while at the same time minimizing the penalties involved with collision detection and response This algorithm partitions the state equation graph of the scene into strongly connected components which also allows Asgard to preserve as much previously computed data as possible when editing changes are made by the user Asgard is part of the multi media document processing system Ensemble Animated scenes can be integrated with multi media documents as well as developed on their own
