How to Make a Lava Lamp

What Happened.

A lava lamp works because of two different scientific principles: density and polarity.

Density is the measurement of how compact a substance is. The higher it is, the more compact it is.

If you compare the equal volumes of oil and water you'll find that the water is heavier than the oil. Water is heavier which will make it go to the bottom of it.

Water and oil don't mix because their molecules are "polar" because they have a bonded electrical charge that attracts other atoms. Oil is not polarizable however, and non-polar. They don't have a perfect charge, so they are not attracted to the water molecules at all. This is why oil and water don't mix. Instead of mixing a light color, the water and oil stay in their own little bubbles. The surface tension between the water and oil prevents them from mixing. The water is heavier than the oil, so they don't mix at all.

Science

What You Do

1. Fill the flask with water.
2. Add the rest of the flask with oil.
3. Add a few drops of food coloring.
4. Add the Alka-Seltzer tablets.
