

Conference Abstracts

A conference paper abstract should adhere to the basic requirements of the descriptive abstract, but should also state clearly how the proposed paper fits in the theme of the conference. For instance, a call for papers for a session on "Science and Literature in the 19th Century" at a conference entitled "(Dis)Junctions" requested "critical works on the interaction between scientific writing and literature in the 19th century: how did scientific discoveries, theories and assumptions (for example, in medicine and psychology, but not limited to these) influence contemporaneous fiction?" If you were submitting a paper to this session, you would want to have a sentence or two about the theories you were discussing and name the particular works where you would identify their influence.

If you can work the words "join" or "junction" (or "disjunction") into your title or abstract, you will increase your chance of having the paper accepted, since you're showing clearly how the paper fits the theme of the session. Concluding your abstract with a pithy phrase that relates back to the conference theme is also a good plan.

Length It is very important that you check the time allotted to each paper (usually 20 minutes, with 10 minutes for questions, but this can vary) so you know what you can offer in your paper, and therefore your abstract. You will not have time to make more than three main points in this time, so your abstract should not be so detailed as to frighten the conference organizers.

Practical requirements Organizers appreciate your specifying that "this paper can be given in X minutes" and will also need to know if you need any special technology to present the paper so, having written your abstract, you can add a separate sentence below under "technical requirements," such as "This paper can be presented in 20 minutes and requires the technology to show brief film clips on DVD." This is a much-appreciated professional touch, and will also avoid catastrophes such as your paper being stopped in its tracks on the day, because you hadn't specified you would need a stable internet feed to show that YouTube video that was crucial to your argument.

Program and Abstracts of the Thirty-Third Interscience Conference on Antimicrobial Agents and Chemotherapy, 1993 Program and Book of Abstracts, 1995 Future Energy Conferences and Symposia, 1995

Abstracts of the ... Interscience Conference on Antimicrobial Agents and Chemotherapy, 2003 KI 2008: Advances in Artificial Intelligence Andreas Dengel, Karsten Berns, Thomas M. Breuel, Frank Bomarius, Thomas R. Roth-Berghofer, 2008-09-16 KI 2008 was the 31st Annual German Conference on Artificial Intelligence held September 23-26 at the University of Kaiserslautern and the German Research Center for Artificial Intelligence DFKI GmbH in Kaiserslautern, Germany. The conference series started in 1975 with the German Workshop on AI (GWAI) which took place in Bonn and represents the first forum of its type for the German AI Community. Over the years AI has become a major field in computer science in Germany involving a number of successful projects that received much international attention. Today KI conferences are international forums where participants from academia and industry from all over the world meet to exchange their recent research results and to discuss trends in the field. Since 1993 the meeting has been called the Annual German Conference on Artificial Intelligence designated by the German acronym KI. This volume contains the papers selected out of 77 submissions including a number of submissions from outside German speaking countries. In total 15 submissions (19%) were accepted for oral and 30 (39%) for poster presentation. Oral presentations at the conference were in a single track. Because of this the choice of presentation form (oral or poster) was based on how well reviews indicated that the paper would fit into one or the other format. The proceedings allocate the same space to both types of papers. In addition we selected six papers that show high application potential describing systems or prototypical implementations of innovative AI technologies. They are also included in this volume as two-page extended abstracts.
