Challenge 1:

1. The routing table finds a routing entry to the destination IP address.
2. The router decrements the TTL on the packet.
3. The packet is going from an inside to an outside network. The router looks up its NAT table for necessary translations.
4. The NAT table does not have existing translations with the inside local address and port. It goes through the inside source list for necessary translations.
5. An inside source entry is created from a list. The new entry is added to the NAT table.
6. The NAT table has a matched entry for this packet. It replaces the inside local address and port with the global ones.
7. The outgoing port has an outbound traffic associated with an ID of 1. The router checks the packet against the source list.
